

POST-SCRIPTS By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

"It speaks itself, and what it does contain,
In all things needful to be known, is plain."

Here's news!

Many prostrated by the heat during the exercises at Arlington. Boy, page the gentleman who has been going around insisting that this was to be the year without a summer!

With the Nats confronted by four games in two days in New York Bucky Harris is undecided whether to pitch Nick Altrock in the opener or hold him for relief work.

"And hast thou slain the Jabberwock?"

Come to my arms, my beamish boy.
The Antislavery League clasps Senator Borah to its arid bosom like Pharaoh's daughter finding a Moses in what Tom Sawyer called the "bull rasher," but if New York authorizes a prohibition referendum and Bill urges the drys not to vote, what kind of political morality will that be?

President Coolidge tells the nations of Europe that they ought to lay aside their suspicions and hatreds, and he might have added that that was what Europe was advising us to do back in '61.

A lot of gold buried down in Alabama back in the civil war times is recovered—without interest. A clay bank doesn't pay any.

A youth of 23 wins $40,000 by risking his neck at 94.63 miles an hour for 400 miles for the dedication of a crowd of sensation dopes.
"But what good came of it at last?"
Quoth little Peterkin.

"Why, that I cannot tell," said he;
"But 'twas a famous victory."

"When a Congressman makes a speech for prohibition," admits Mr.
Wayne B. Wheeler, "his expenses and sometimes an honorarium are paid by the organization that arranged for it," so all Mr. Tinkham has to do now is to get the list of names with the amounts.

"And ye all walk in silk attire,
And siller hae to spare."

"We have seen force tried," says the President, "but the more people study its results the more they must be convinced that on the whole it has failed." Still, if it had failed in the Boston police strike where would Mr. Coolidge have been speaking yesterday?

June,

Senator Borah probably couldn't understand the psychology of Pilsudski—the poor simp doesn't want to be President unless he can change the Constitution.

"Ruder sounds shall none be near,
Guards nor warders challenge here, Here's no war-steed's neigh and champing, Shouting clans or squadrons stamping."

A grateful nation pays tribute to the soldier whose warfare being o'er sleeps "the sleep that knows not breaking." Let us try not to be too envious of him!

Here's the regular morning crossword puzzle from the Chinese front at the rear, and if you get the answer please telephone it in.

Prince Gustavus Adolphus is a smart fellow—he listens with enjoyment to 58 Swedish choruses, and we couldn't understand one.

Ku Klux Klan leader didn't like the way Krubaech was running the township, and confesses he mailed the bomb which killed three persons, and he probably won't like the way
the hangman runs the noose, either.
Some people are so hard to please.

We trust that in his sequentialous account of the marvelous machines invented in the last 150 years Secretary Hoover did not offend Philadelphia by neglecting to mention Bill Vane's.

The Supreme Court of Tennessee goes on trial at the bar of enlightened opinion as Johnny Scopes gets his name in the papers again.

Army officers stationed at Tientsin are becoming so proficient in the Chinese language it is expected that upon returning to this country few of them will have any difficulty in getting their laundry back.

The people of France pay homage, where the poppies blew "between the crosses, row on row," to the Yankee boys who are still "Over There." If the politicians and neu-ronomists of both countries would let them the people could be dependent upon, in their own way, to bring these sister republics, now drifting apart, nearer together.

COOLIDGE ECONOMY SAVES GOVERNMENT NEARLY $22,000,000

Practice Will Be Carried Forward With Even Greater Zeal.

SMALLER PAY ROLL IS EXECUTIVE'S AIM

Some of Government's Less Essential Work Will Be Lopped Off.

By WILLIAM P. HELM, Jr.
During the first ten months of the current fiscal year, President Coolidge, in furtherance of his purpose to bring about another tax cut during his present term, enforced his economy plans on his subordinates to the extent of about $22-000,000, that sum representing the lessened expenditures of the government departments this year as compared with the expenditures during the corresponding period of last year.

By the end of the fiscal year, June 30, the President hopes to swell the $22,000,000 saving to $30,000,000.
During the coming fiscal year the policy will be carried forward with even greater zeal. The President has not as yet announced the limit to which the expenditures of his subordinates may extend during the coming year. He will do so within the next three weeks and one can be assured that the figure will be lower than the total for this year.

This reduction in government expenditure has come to the point where it means that lower expenditures will have to be effected, to some extent, by a smaller pay roll. And that means that the President wants fewer employees in the government service from now on. It does not mean that there are to be wholesale discharges of faithful workers, but it does mean that vacancies due to resignation, retirement or death are not to be filled where it is humanly possible to do the work without filling them.

Activities to be Curtailed.
It also means that the government is on the verge of lopping off some of its less essential chores.
Things it has been doing for years, investments that started back in the good old times and seem doomed to run on forever, temporary undertakings that are threatening with the passage of the years to become permanent—these are to feel the pinch of the Coolidge economy program in the coming fiscal year of 1927.

The policy already has been announced by the President; henceforth it is to be emphasized. The business of shortening the Federal pay roll is going to be taken up in earnest after July 1. It has grown somewhat during the Coolidge administration, but analysis shows that its growth has been largely along two lines neither of which lay under White House control. The first of these concerns the ever-increasing postal service, almost self-supporting, whose numbers increase because their work increases.
The second concerns several thousand additional employees, many of them temporary, whose employment was necessitated by the passage and administration of the soldier bonus law.

The regular establishment of government which conducts its peacetime routine is not growing. On the contrary, it is shrinking. The President wants to hasten the shrinking process and probably will make known his wishes in unmistakable terms when he speaks again of the nation's financial affairs.

A study of the Federal ledgers discloses that some of the Federal departments are spending considerably more this year than they spent last. The veterans' bureau, for instance, spent $338,000,000 during the first ten months of the current fiscal year as compared with $322,000,000. Secretary Hoover, interest on furthering American industry and commerce, increased his expenditures by upward of $3,500-000 or about 17 1/2 per cent. His budget for the first ten months, ended April 30, was $24,300,000 as compared with $20,800,000 during the same period a year ago.

The Treasury Department, collecting the revenues under a new tax law and with a mounting volume of customs receipts, increased its expenditures during the ten months by more than $9,000,000. Congress itself is spending about $1,000,000 a year more, thanks to its recent increase.

Wisdom of Trial by Jury To Fix Insanity Is Debated

Scientist Believes Suspected Persons Should Be Spared Humiliation, While Lawyers Fear "Railroading" by Any Other System.

By MRS. J. BORDEN HARRIMAN.

Inspired by the Fenning case, a group around a dinner table fell into a spirited discussion of the merits and demerits of a jury trial to determine a person's mental status.

Some one pointed out that the primitive people of China and through the Middle Ages in Europe, believed that those slightly demented were holy, and violent persons being supposedly possessed of the devil were put to death. The idea that any one could be just mentally ill was slow to dawn on society.

Also, about 75 or 100 years ago
Charles Reade wrote "Hard Cash," discussing the vicious system of private asylums in England. Patients were constantly shut up in them for criminal reasons only. This book stirred public opinion to such an extent that the law then threw about commitments every conceivable safeguard.

The scientist said: "Yes, but that was to cure an evil of a century ago. That evil no longer exists. I have been connected with institutions for the mentally ill for 34 years, and have never known a case where a patient was kept in for criminal motives. All private asylums are now under State supervision. It isn't right that so cruel and humiliating a proceeding as a trial by jury be imposed on a sick person.

With the tradition of the legal mind that hasn't specialized in these cases, all the lawyers present declared their preference for a jury trial. In fact, several gave it as their opinion that anything else was unconstitutional.

Scientist: "But why thrust this constitutional right down the throat of some one who doesn't want it? Ninety per cent don't want it."

Journalist: "I also am inclined to think there should be adjudication."

Scientist: "Just pause, please, and consider what that means. The patient has to go before a jury of twelve men, the court hangs on, and the newspaper reporters. Then all the family history is disclosed to the public gaze. And afterwards the patient, if he recovers, is probably forever antagonized toward his relatives. Besides, adjudication takes away civil rights.
The tendency of all modern lunacy legislation throughout the United States is to deprive the insane of civil rights."

MUTINY HALTS MARCH OF TROOPS ON PEKING

National Chinese Army Holds Line 12 Miles North and West of Capital.

YEN CABINET IN PERIL

(Special Cable Dispatch.)
Peking, May 31.—The Kuominchun (national army) is holding Changpingchow, 12 miles northwest of Peking, but is not pursuing the Manchurians, who are beset with new troubles by the mutiny of a bandit division at Langfang, midway between Peking and Tientsin, causing the suspension of traffic while they are being disarmed, although many have escaped and are looting the countryside. Other indications are that the Manchurians are preparing to reoccupy a line in the vicinity of Hwangtsunghen, Tungchow Chi and Miyun, all east of Peking, although there are no indications of other forces immediately approaching.

The Kuominchun assert the recovery of the railway across northern Szechuan province, thus again uniting the armies and makes possible the reinforcement of the Peking front.

A definite break reported between Ma Shih Wu Pei Fu and Gen.
Chang Tso-lin has not been confirmed, but it is certain that Mashih Wu's troops are not active against the Kuominchun.

The legations believe the further overturn of the government is imminent, since no minister has entered the Yen cabinet. The situation makes doubtful the expected final session of the tariff conference Wednesday, while the reported agreement impounding $17,000,000 annually for unsecured loans is meeting with opposition from all the Chinese factions.

QUAKE IN MONTANA ALARMS RESIDENTS

People of Three Forks Rush Into Street in Night Garb; Recorded Here.

Butte, Mont., May 31 (By A. P.).—The city of Three Forks was shaken by an earthquake at 5:25 o'clock this morning, according to dispatches received here by the Butte Miner. No material damage was done, the dispatches said, although the tremor was more severe than one last Friday. Residents were awakened and rushed into the street.

Reports from Lombard, Mont., also told of a tremor early today that threw rocks from the sides of a canyon, blocking the tracks of the Northern Pacific railroad.

BRITAIN FACING CRISIS IN CONTROL OF EGYPT

At Parting of Ways, Is View, After Election Won by Zaghloul Group.

ENTIRE CABINET QUILTS

Alexandria, Egypt, May 31 (By A. P.).—Egypt is in the throes of a ministerial crisis, the solution of which is likely to have far-reaching effects on the future of the country and its relation with British rule here. Premier Ahmed Ziwir Pasha, who had been in office since 1924, has presented the resignation of his cabinet to King Fuad, and the king requested him to remain in office to carry on routine business until a decision is reached as to whether Zaghloul Pasha, the nationalist leader, or Adly Yegen Pasha is to be called in to form a ministry.

Supporters of Zaghloul are angry. They express the opinion that England now has a definite opportunity to settle the Egyptian problem once for all. They say that Lord Lloyd, the new British high commissioner in Egypt, must respect the popular vote in the last elections, in which Zaghloul's partisans carried the majority of the seats, and that the British authorities must call Zaghloul to power to head the victorious coalition.

Warning is given by the followers of Zaghloul that should the British authorities again resort to dissolution of parliament the result would be "serious trouble and possible rioting."

Zaghloul had a long conference with Lord Lloyd Sunday and is reported to have asserted that he is eager to arrive at a definite, durable agreement with Great Britain.

Adly Yegen, the other statesman who has been mentioned as possible premier, is a constitutional liberal

POLES EMBITTERED TOWARD PILSUDSKI; NEW COUP FEARED

Elected President, He De- clines, but Names Two Candidates.

INSULT IS CHARGED BY HIS SUPPORTERS

Socialists Likely to Support Third Man; Dissolution of Assembly Possible.

Warsaw, May 31 (By A. P.).— Marshal Joseph Pilsudski today was chosen for the presidency of the Polish republic by the national assembly, composed of the senate and diet, 232 votes to 193 for Count Brinski, but in dramatic manner he declined the post because of the restrictions he said were imposed on the chief executive by the present constitution.

Consequently, Acting President
Rataj issued orders for the calling of a new election tomorrow morning. Tonight there were some signs of disquietude over the possibility of Pilsudski's attempting another coup d'etat by dissolving parliament in the event that one of the two candidates he suggested is not elected. These two candidates are Dr. Zdzislawski, professor of philosophy at Vilna university, and Prof. Ignatz Moscicki, of Lemberg university.

Police Are Keeping Order.
Warsaw presented the same picture tonight as before today's election. The police were busy keeping order among the many thousands gathered in the streets. The parliamentary building, which is surrounded by a park, was cordoned for a radius of about a mile, and only those with unquestionable identification were allowed to pass. There was a gigantic demonstration in Redemptor square, staged in the hope of influencing Pilsudski to reconsider his decision.

Of the two candidates proposed by Pilsudski when he refused to assume the presidential chair, Prof. Moscicki, although relatively unknown to the general public, appears to have the most promising chance. He is an intimate friend of M. Rataj, named provisional president after the Pilsudski revolt, and M. Bartel, premier in the interim cabinet.

The socialists who nominated Pilsudski are so embittered by his unforeseen action that they are likely to put up a candidate of their own.
Ignaz Daszynski, who in 1918 was chancellor of the short-lived Lublin socialist republic. The radical peasant party expects to vote pro-Pilsudski, despite today's developments.

Consternation.
The Plasi party, organization of
M. Witos, who was premier when the Pilsudski revolt overthrew the government, attempted today to induce M. Rataj to accept nomination, but he refused. The Christian Nationalists agreed to nominate Michael Boguszewski, although they probably will withdraw his name later. The National Democrats insist upon a candidate who is assured of a majority. Much.

Liner Passengers See Bear on Iceberg

New York, May 31 (By A. P.).— A polar bear on a mammoth iceberg floating in the Atlantic 1,180 miles from New York was reported by passengers of the Hamburg-American liner Hamburg, which docked today.

The iceberg, 2,000 feet long and rearing its apex 100 feet out of the water, was seen when the liner was off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.
Commander Kiel said. The vessel was at one time within 8 miles of the berg. Passengers with field glasses said they saw the bear clambering around the side of the berg.

Fishing, Man Finds Body of Daughter

Del Norte, Colo., May 31 (By A.
P.).—While fishing in the Rio Grande yesterday, Chance Duffer, a South Fork farmer, recovered the body of a child floating down the stream, only to learn that it was his own daughter, Helen, 8.

With other fishermen he conducted a search and found Mrs.
Duffer, with a broken collar bone, and another daughter, Dora, 9, with a broken arm, in the wreckage of an automobile a mile upstream.
Mrs. Duffer, motoring with her two children, lost control of the car which plunged into the river.

NEW YORK LEADERS OF DRY CAUSE SEEK HELP FROM BORAH

Senator Will Be Invited to Present His Views in Empire State.

WHEELER INDORSES BALTIMORE SPEECH

Antislavery League Counsel Denies Paying Congress Members for Action.

Special to The Washington Post.
New York, May 31.—Senator William E. Borah's vigorous denunciation of the New York State liquor referendum has definitely placed him in the leadership of the dry forces of the country and may result in his selection as the champion of prohibition in the presidential campaign of 1928, according to officials of the Anti-saloon league.

The dry leaders said today they looked with high favor on the Idaho senator's frank disapproval of the referendum as expressed by him in an address before the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church at Baltimore Sunday.

Orrville S. Poland, counsel for the State Antislavery league, said that in all probability Senator Borah will be invited to speak in this State on the referendum.
While the senator, it was said, could not logically oppose the holding of the referendum, since it has been passed on by the legislature and approved by Gov. Smith he could, in the opinion of the Anti-saloon forces, "bring home to the people the futility of voting in the hope that they were going to give an interpretation to the eighteenth amendment that would legalize the sale of liquor."

Gov. Smith, who was at the Blit-more, had no comment to make on Senator Borah's speech. Friends of the governor say he took the view that the senator "was entitled to his opinion."

The senator's remarks that es-

Montana Will Vote On Dry Law Repeal

Helena, Mont., May 31 (By A.
P.).—Montana will vote this fall on prohibition.

Petitions filed from Silver Bow county (Butte) containing 2,644 valid names, completed the required total of petitioners for an initiative repeal measure and the necessary number of county petitions —24—have been filed at the office of the secretary of State here for several weeks.

The proposal is to repeal the prohibition statutes now on the books in Montana except those relating to minors. The Montana Association Against Prohibition is sponsor for the initiative of the measure.

Woman Race Driver Killed Under Auto

Denver, Colo., May 31 (By A.
P.).—Mrs. J. A. Walker, of Denver, was killed today when the automobile she was driving in a five-mile event at the Memorial day racing program at Overland park, overturned.

The woman entered the race as the "masked marvel." Her husband was entered in other racing events on the same card.

$200,000 Gold Recovered; Buried in Civil War Days

Demopolis, Ala., May 31 (By A.
P.).—Aided by old papers his father left him, Gayus Whitfield, of Middleboro, Ky., today unearthed buried gold valued at more than $200,000, on the Whitfield farm, near here. The discovery of the treasure came as the result of a search which began Saturday, May 22.

Directions for locating the gold were contained in papers left to his son by C. Boas Whitfield, member of one of the oldest and most aristocratic families of Alabama, and descendant of the pioneer general, Nathan Bryan Whitfield.

When Gayus Whitfield began his search, 35 workmen were employed to uncover an old boundary stake on the Shady Grove farm, eighteen miles from Demopolis, near Jefferson. For a week the force worked without result, but

U. S. BALLOONIST WINS RACE IN SNOW AND RAIN

Van Orman Victor in Most Dangerous Contest of Past 20 Years.

ONE AMERICAN MISSING

Brussels, May 31 (By A. P.).—
The American balloon, Goodyear
III, manned by Wade T. Van Orman, with Walter W. Morgan assisting, has won what is considered here one of the most difficult and dangerous races for the Gordon Bennett trophy in 20 years. The Goodyear landed at Solverson, southern Sweden, having covered 528 miles under exceptionally arduous conditions, assailed, in turn, by snow, rain and squalls. The balloons took off late yesterday afternoon from the aviation field near Antwerp.

The admiration of aeronautic circles over the splendid achievement, however, is marred by the anxiety over the fate of John A. Boettner, aboard the other American balloon, the Akron NAA, of whom nothing has been heard since his companion, H. W. Maxson, was bumped out of the balloon almost at the start, involving disqualification.

The official classification of the entries which finished is as follows:

ashore early today on Little Gull Island, off New London. The Majave of the coast guard was sent out to her rescue.

Child Walking on Road Killed by Automobile

June Elliott, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. El-cott, of West Falls Church, Va., was fatally injured when she was struck by an automobile near her home yesterday afternoon. The driver of the machine failed to stop.

The child, with her 11-year-old brother, Henry, was walking toward her home on a road near the Lee highway. The machine, which was traveling at a high speed, struck her while she was on the side of the road. Mr. Elliott took the child to Georgetown University hospital, where it was found that she was suffering from a fracture of the skull and a broken leg. She died at 12:45 o'clock this morning.

European Peace Sought

Continuing, he said, "We believe that other nations ought to join with us in laying aside their suspicions and hatreds sufficiently to agree among themselves upon methods of mutual relief from the necessity of the maintenance of great land and sea forces.

"We should not underestimate the difficulties of European nations nor fail to extend to them the highest degree of patience and the most sympathetic consideration. But we cannot fail to assert our conviction that they are in great need of further limitation of armaments and our determination to lend them every assistance in the solution of their problems.

"We have entered the conference with the utmost good faith on our part and in the sincere belief that it represents the utmost good faith on their part. We want to see the problems that are there presented stripped of all technicalities and met and solved in a way that will secure practical results."

The President stood under a blazing sun while he talked and was interrupted several times by applause.

Maj. Gen. John L. Clem, the fa-

SENATE TO GET BILL ENDING WHOLESALE GUARDIANSHIP WORK

Measure Aimed at Fenning Practice Will Be Reported This Week.

GIVES VETERANS' BUREAU HEAD LIMITATION POWER

Provision Enabling Director to Break Up Professional Activities Agreed To.

The bill ending Commissioner Fenning's world war veterans' guardianship practice will be reported to the Senate this week with a view to final passage before Congress adjourns. The measure already has been passed by the House.

Changes are likely in some of the general provisions of the bill which has to do with hospitalization and sundry other matters relating to the veterans, before it is reported, but there is no disagreement on the provision which empowers Director Hines, of the veterans' bureau, to limit the number of wards for any one guardian.

Should any guardian contest the director's efforts to break up the wholesale practice, the director has only to withhold the ward's compensation, depositing it in the Treasury at interest. This, it is pointed out, will permit returns on the money equal to those which the guardian's services may be yielding by reason of his putting the money in the bank or investing it in government bonds.

Limit of Five Favored.

The provision is so worded that the director will not have to disturb guardianships in the rare cases of where a relative may be serving for five or more wards or where a bank is so serving. The director has gone on record as favoring a limit of five wards to any one guardian, generally speaking.

It is understood not to be the director's plan, under the authority given him by the bill, to disturb the accounts now handled by trust companies or other well established fiduciary institutions. It so happens, for example, that the Bank of Italy, serves as guardian for about 20 Italian-Americans who served with the American forces and who are now drawing compensation for mental disability, and there are other instances of a bank having the guardianship of more than five wards.

The bill is aimed at, and it is Director Hines' purpose to break up, the wholesale professional guardianship. These are the ones which eat into the veterans' estate. In the first place, banks seldom charge more than three or four per cent. The personal guardian, Mr. Fenning especially, charges 10 per cent.

Banding Phase.

The personal guardian, too, has to give a bond to cover the estate of each ward for whom he serves. The premium on the bond is, of course, a charge against the estate. These premiums range as high as $75 a year. Mr. Fenning sold himself these bonds and collected a 25 per cent commission on each one, it has been pointed out.

With a bank handling the estate the bond does not required.

The personal guardian occasionally takes it upon himself to visit his distant wards. He is in the position of being criticized if he does not visit them, and of being criticized if he does because, in the case of Mr. Fenning, the ward pays for the visit.

The personal visits, when made by relatives or a guardian who is serving for reasons other than the compensation involved, are a factor in the welfare of the ward, it is pointed out, but can hardly be so considered when one man is serving for 100 wards. The visits then take on the aspect of an inspection, with which all veterans thought they were hearing when the war ended.

The hearing before the House Judiciary subcommittee will be resumed today. Morning, afternoon and night sessions are likely.

PASSENGER AIRPLANES TO PHILADELPHIA SOON

Service From Here Announced By Hoover, But Details Are Withheld.

Establishment of a passenger airplane service between this city and Philadelphia, to be operated under government supervision, was announced yesterday by Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

Although the exact details were not made known, Secretary Hoover declared three planes, now under construction, and capable of carrying from ten to twelve passengers, would be put into service in the near future. The planes will be of a special-build Fokker.

The local terminal will be at Bolling field, Anacostia, while the Philadelphia terminal will be at the navy yard. It is understood the planes will be used to carry passengers who intend visiting the sesquicentennial exhibition in Philadelphia. No announcement of who will run the planes was made.

H. G. Hanlon Injured When Struck by Auto

Harry G. Hanlon, 49 years old, of Landover, Md., was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a taxicab driven by R. C. Miller, colored, 1800 N street northwest on the Benning bridge northeast. Hanlon was taken to Casualty hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and cuts on the face and body. After the accident Miller was arrested by police from the Ninth precinct and is being held pending outcome of Hanlon's injuries.

According to police, Hanlon was riding in an automobile driven by William H. Manley, who also lives in Landover. The automobile became stalled on the bridge and Hanlon stepped out to hail a passing automobile for assistance. As he stepped from the automobile, police reported, he was struck by the taxicab.

Skull Fractured in Collision.

Oscar Townsend, Westwood, Md., suffered a fractured skull when an automobile driven by him collided head-on last night with an automobile driven by George Carter, colored, 1724 T street northwest, near Waldorf, Md. He was taken to Emergency hospital in a critical condition.

WOMEN'S "REVOLT" OVER CLUB POLICY LOST, THEY ADMIT

Louisville Delegates, However, Will Be Given Hearing at Atlantic City.

CENSORSHIP CHARGED OVER BOOK PUBLICITY

Resolution to Aid "Good" Volumes Is Adopted in Spite of Protest.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 31 (By A. P.).—The five Louisville independent delegates to the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs were notified today by Mrs. John D. Sherman, national president, that they would be given a hearing from the floor of the convention tomorrow. Each delegate may speak for two minutes and may offer resolutions which the general board previously refused to consider "emergency measures."

The resolutions attempt to rescind the presidential policy by which individual clubs are bound by the action of the federation and ask deferment of changes in charter and by-laws tending to centralize power in the executive committee composed of the officers.

The cause of the Louisville delegates is virtually lost, they themselves admit, since the policy they seek to have rescinded was passed by the general federation a few days ago, as were the opposed resolutions.

Want to Present Case.

"All we expect to do is to stand up and present our case as best we can," said Mrs. Atwood Martin, spokeswoman of the minority. "When the vote is called for, we shall probably stand alone unless two other Louisville clubs lend us their support."

"But, by doing this, we shall have put the information before the federation and when in the future some individual club finds itself bound as we have been by a federation ruling directly contrary to its own policy they will remember our arguments and they will do just as we have done—rebel," Mrs. Rufus Davies, of Evanston, Ill., speaking today in the international relations program, declared that club women should be less arrogant in dictating how members of Congress should vote on international relations. "Just because we have attended a course of lectures on economics does not prove that we understand as much about international problems as the experts," she said.

In the literature division the policy of "publicity for good books and no publicity for worthless books" brought objection from one member on the ground of "censorship." Mrs. Maggie Barry, of College Station, Tex., opposed this section of the resolution presented by Mrs. L. A. Miller, of Colorado Springs, chairman of the division, but the federation overruled her and the original resolution passed.

It also involves endorsement of daily reading of the Bible in public schools of the country, which was passed unopposed.

Other resolutions carried today were that urging on the President and Congress the appointment to postoffice positions by merit, rather than through politics, and that reaffirming faith in the Smith-Hughes act, providing appropriations for home economics.

RIOTING THREATENED BY EGYPTIAN GROUP

of rather independent tendency. The total number of liberals and independents returned to the chamber in the last election is only 20, while the Zaghoul coalition controls 180 votes.

Zaghoul is said to have informed Lord Lloyd that he was willing to accept the British declaration of February 28, 1922, as basis for discussion of his program. This declaration lays down four conditions which all Egyptian governments must accept, as follows:

Great Britain undertakes, first, to insure security of communications for the British Empire in Egypt; second, the defense of Egypt against any and all foreign aggression or any direct or indirect foreign interference; third, the protection of foreign interests and minorities, and fourth, the protection of Sudan.

Prominent personages here voice the view that Great Britain has come to the parting of ways in Egypt, and must either accept the popular vote of the country as a guide to the choice of a premier, thus insuring relative peace and quiet, or the further strife of the past few years will continue.

BISHOPS' RIGHT DENIED TO SPEAK FOR CHURCH

Episcopalians Have Not Officially Opposed Lausanne Treaty, Editor Says.

(By the Associated Press.)

In opposing ratification of the Lausanne treaty with Turkey, Bishop William T. Manning and the 109 other bishops of the Episcopal Church, have no right to speak for the church officially, Guy Emery Shipley, editor of the Churchman, New York city, says in a letter to Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee.

Shipley describes the Churchman as the oldest religious journal in America, and "the only liberal national weekly of the Episcopal Church," and says its position in reference to the Lausanne treaty "runs directly to that taken by the 110 bishops."

"It is what I conceive to be a significant fact," Shipley added, "that when the matter came before a session of the house of bishops in October, the general convention turned down by unanimous action requests for such an endorsement as that given in their recent statement."

My own opinion is that the document originated with Bishop Manning and that the other signatures of bishops were secured in the somewhat happy-go-lucky fashion not entirely uncommon in the practice of bishops.

JOSEPH DAVID TRIES TO END LIFE IN JAIL

Man Serving 30 Years for Robbery Saved by Vigilance of Guard.

Joseph David, alias Davidoff, sentenced to 30 years in the penitentiary about a week ago for the robbery on March 7 of the home of Mrs. Caroline C. Williams, 1227 Sixteenth street, was frustrated in an attempt at suicide by hanging last night in the District jail.

David tied the corners of a bed sheet to the top bars of his cell, and with the other end fastened securely about his neck, slid from his bunk which swings from the wall, dropping about one foot.

He was observed immediately afterward, however, by R. B. Wright, jail guard, who rushed into the cell and released him. David did not remonstrate or offer resistance, and made no statement or explanation, keeping mum, his general deportment since his confinement.

Drunk Men Ordered To Visit Cemeteries

Cleveland, Ohio, May 31 (By A. P.).—Holding "surprise court" for seventy-five "drunks" today Municipal Judge David Moylan ordered them to visit the graves of mothers or friends and "take the pledge."

The defendants were arrested Sunday night. Judge Moylan opened court so that they might not pass the holiday in jail.

"I want every one of you to go to a cemetery today," he said, "if your mothers are buried here visit their graves and vow that you will never drink again. The rest of you take the pledge at the grave of a friend."

Cabaret Singer, 23, Ashamed, Ends Life

New York, May 31 (By A. P.).—Unable to bear the thought that his mother, who believed him in prosperous circumstances, was about to discover that he was "only a cabaret singer," Gerold Schrage, 23-year-old singer, actor, pianist and graduate of a Western university, committed suicide by illuminating gas today.

Schrage, who played the piano and sang for a living in a Greenwich Village resort, living in a furnished room nearby, had brooded constantly for several days concerning the impending visit of his mother from her home in Aberdeen, Wash.

ROBSON URGES DRAFTING OF DOLLARS IN WARTIME

Representative Speaks at Joint Services in Congressional Cemetery.

TRIBUTES PAID TO DEAD

The drafting of "American dollars as well as American flesh and blood" was recommended as a more equitable policy of war by Representative John M. Robson, of Kentucky, speaking at memorial services yesterday in Congressional cemetery.

Asking "will it be out of place for me to point out a suggestion of future service?" he said:

"In all previous wars the nation has claimed the right, and it has the power, to draft the nation's manhood and womanhood, flesh and blood, for its defense, while the dollars remain at home to profit on the government."

Pointing out that many men "made more than $1,000 every time the sun went down" while soldiers were dying on Flanders field, he suggested that we should "shape our laws that in case of another war, American dollars may also be drafted."

Representative Robson paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of the soldiers buried in the "historic cemetery" in which all the wars are represented. "We are here to renew our devotion," he said, "as well as honor their memories."

The services were under the direction of A. B. Bennett, junior vice department commander, Grand Army of the Republic, assisted by the Spanish War Veterans, and the Stuart Walcott post, No. 10, the American Legion. The Rev. John Paul Tyler pronounced the invocation. The Navy band played. Commander James C. Yaden, of the Spanish War Veterans, read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. The choir of Epworth M. E. church sang.

DR. PRICE IS NAMED DELEGATE TO PANAMA

President Appoints Three to Attend Pan-American Congress on Isthmus.

Dr. William Jennings Price, professor of law in Georgetown university, was one of three men commissioned yesterday by President Coolidge to represent the United States at the Pan-American congress which will convene in Panama June 21.

John Glover South, minister plenipotentiary to Panama, and Charles G. Hackett, professor of history in the University of Texas, were the other two commissioned as representatives of this country.

The congress will be in the nature of a centennial, commemorating the first Pan-American congress, brought about through the combined efforts of Gen. Simon Bolivar and Henry Clay, in 1826. Dr. Price was formerly minister plenipotentiary to Panama. Dr. Hackett has studied and lectured on Mexico, and has made a specialty of Latin-American historical studies.

Cornell Publications Cause 18 Suspensions

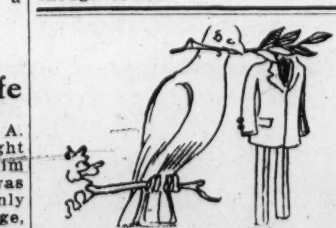

Ithaca, N. Y., May 31 (By A. P.).—Eighteen students have been suspended from Cornell university for their part in issuing objectionable publications on spring day, May 22, it was learned today. W. A. Hammond, dean of the university faculty, in a chairmanship of the faculty committee on student affairs, which took the action, declined to make known the names of the students.

The publications were "The Globe and Square Dealer" and "The Graphic." "The Globe and Square Dealer" was suspended beginning today.

It was stated that the students were suspended for the names of university officials in a derogatory manner.

ARMORY DANCE MARKS ANNAPOLIS JUNE WEEK

Midshipmen and Visitors Guests of Admiral and Mrs. Nulton Tonight.

NATIONAL SALUTE FIRED

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 31.—Midshipmen enjoyed a hundred per cent holiday today, because of Memorial day, when there was a lull in "June week" events. An informal dance was given in the armory from 4 to 6 in the afternoon, and a large party of midshipmen and visitors attended a matinee dance in the gymnasium at St. Johns college. Tonight there was an open-air band concert.

Tomorrow festivities will get under way with a rush. There will be two infantry drills, companies of the First battalion performing on Worden field, and the Second battalion on Farragut field. At 4 the Academy band will give a concert, and 5:30 the midshipmen will appear in dress parade, this event to be featured by the annual presentation of colors.

From 9 o'clock until midnight the graduates will be guests of honor at a garden party given by Superintendent and Mrs. Nulton at their quarters. The second classmen will be hosts at their annual ring dance, marking the "baptism" of their class rings, as a time-honored custom denies them such trinkets until they have advanced thus far in their course.

Members of the third class also will be hosts at a dance. There is nothing on the program for the "Plebes" except a "movie" show.

Firing of the national salute of 21 guns at the Naval Academy marked the principal observance of Memorial day here. Other ceremonies included a parade under auspices of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars and their auxiliaries. The marchers included a company of marines and a company of navy bluejackets headed by the Academy band. The National and Naval cemeteries were visited. Graves were decorated and marines fired volleys.

Man's Skull Broken When Autos Collide

Steven Leahman, 32 years old, Swarthmore, Pa., suffered a fractured skull yesterday when an automobile in which he was riding collided with an automobile driven by John Hern, 324 Varnum street northwest, at Eleventh and Rhode Island avenue northwest. He was taken to Garfield hospital, where his condition last night was reported as critical.

Police were endeavoring yesterday to locate his wife and child who were said to be visiting friends in Mount Pleasant.

KLAN CHIEF ADMITS HAVING SENT BOMB THAT KILLED THREE

One of Victims "Was Running Town" Is Reason He Gives for Crime.

CONFESSES WHILE TRIPLE
FUNERAL IS BEING HELD

Ill Feeling Against Prisoner Causes Minister to Forego Preaching Sermon.

Special to The Washington Post.
Muskegon Mich., May 31.—(By A. P.)—A K. Klux Klan leader of Blue Lake township, has signed a written confession that he made and mailed the bomb which killed August Kruebach, township supervisor; his daughter, Jett, 18, and William R. Franke, 2, of Chicago, in Kruebach's parlor last Thursday.

"I did it," Kruebach, who was running a township, I did not like him and decided that it was the only way to get him out of office," he said.

Details of the confession, covering several pages, have not been made public. The statement is locked in the safe at the county jail at Muskegon, where it will remain until Tuesday morning, Sheriff Covell announced.

The confession was signed Sunday afternoon as the triple funeral of his victims was being held a few blocks away at the Elks temple.

Hints at Deeper Mystery.

"There is something else, if only I could tell, it might help," Bartlett said.

On a warrant, formally charging him with Kruebach's death, Bartlett will be taken to the circuit court at once following arraignment tomorrow, and it is possible he may enter a plea of guilty without delay. If Bartlett pleads guilty Judge Vanderwerp will have to take some testimony to decide the degree of the crime. This is necessary under the Michigan law where a guilty plea is offered to a murder charge.

Feeling against Bartlett is increasing.

"I did not dare to trust myself to preach a sermon," said the Rev. Charles A. Clay, pastor of the Congregational church at Whitehall, who conducted funeral services for the three victims.

"The feeling is too great, and I would only have increased it, so I told the family I would confine myself to Scripture reading and a poem, 'The Flood of Years,' by William Cullen Bryant."

Desires No Counsel, He Says.

Bartlett seemed calm and relieved after making his confession. He stopped reading a long letter to inform Attorney Willard G. Turner, Jr., that he did not desire a lawyer. The attorney had been engaged by Bartlett's father.

According to his confession, Bartlett had planned the killing of Kruebach since the township election early in April, when Kruebach defeated Mrs. Jennie Norlin for supervisor. Bartlett had been very bitter and active in electing Mrs. Norlin in 1925, when Kruebach was defeated, largely due to the Klan vote.

It is understood that the bomb that killed Kruebach, his daughter and her fiance was made in Bartlett's blacksmith shop. He is an expert mechanic. For days he worked on the machine. He tested it out in various ways.

Postoffice Clerks Give Clue.

In fact, it is said his confession reveals that after he made the machine, taking other parts of it from a shotgun, he tried it out on a cap. The cap exploded. The bomb contained dynamite, an explosive put out by the government to blow up stumps. The explosive used in the bomb was purchased at Dalton, a small settlement between Muskegon and Blue Lake.

With the bomb completed, Bartlett went to Montague last Wednesday and obtained a package of address stickers from the postoffice there. The information supplied Friday by the two postoffice clerks resulted in Bartlett's arrest. After he purchased the stickers he addressed the package, giving the return address of C. Green, 1600 Reynolds street, Muskegon Heights, a son-in-law of Kruebach.

The package was mailed at the Muskegon postoffice late Wednesday afternoon.

Sultan Pasha Atrash

Condemned to Death

Paris, May 31 (By A. P.)—Havas dispatches from Beirut say that Sultan Pasha Atrash, chief of the Druze tribesmen, has been court-martialed at Damascus and condemned to death in default of his appearance at the trial. Several other dissident chieftains also were condemned to death by default.

The dispatches say that the French troops, which have been advancing north of Soudet, have occupied Acre without difficulty.

Sultan Pasha Atrash first joined the agitation against the French in Syria in 1922, and stated that his tribe sought autonomy. He has been fighting off and on ever since, peace negotiations at various times having failed.

GAYETY PREVAILS IN PRELIMINARIES TO SHRINE COUNCIL

Thousands of Red-Fezed Visitors Make Merry in Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON NOBLES
WILL ATTEND SESSION

Nearly 300 Members of Almas Temple Depart on Special Train.

Philadelphia, May 31 (By A. P.)—Thousands of red-fezzed visitors, many attired in colorful uniforms, made merry on Philadelphia's streets tonight with impromptu parades in anticipation of the fifty-second imperial council session, Ancient Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, which opens tomorrow.

Tonight at the new municipal auditorium, accommodating 10,000 persons, an inaugural ball was held for officers of the imperial council and members of uniformed bodies. While they danced to music furnished by Tripoli temple, Milwaukee, Wis., thousands of others dined at hotels.

Chief of the outdoor gayeties centered on the Arabian way, a half-mile section of Broad street, roped off and decorated with hundreds of colored lights and yards of yellow, green and red bunting. On either side of the street rows of columns, decorated with Egyptian designs, supported festoons of lights and colorful cloths.

Another feature tonight was a ceremonial class initiation at which 1,000 new members were received into Lu Lu temple, Philadelphia. At the same time a reception was held at Masonic temple with masters of the various Masonic lodges of Philadelphia as attendants.

Starting off the program at 7 p. m. to be attended by all the workers of the countries bordering on the Pacific, "because of the probability that the next war may take place in the neighborhood of the Pacific." This announcement, by John A. Beasley, Australian workers' delegate, caused a stir at the international labor conference today. Mr. Beasley criticized the international labor office for doing nothing to prevent wars, and said Australia was convinced that a meeting of the Pacific workers would do much toward maintaining world peace.

Nobles Leave Capital.

Nearly 300 nobles of Almas temple left Washington at midnight last night on a special train for Philadelphia to attend the fifty-second imperial council session of the Ancient Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

The party, headed by Edwin C. Dutton, Oriental guide, included a 77-piece band, drill team of 48 men and the legion of honor composed of 21 world war veterans. The full regalia of the order was worn by the members who will participate in the parade in the Quaker City this morning. They will also march in the parade to be held tomorrow.

The Washington delegation will return to this city immediately after the close of the session Thursday midnight. Due to the large number of Shriners from the South stopping off in the National Capital en route to Philadelphia, the local members of the order were unable to leave until last night because of their duties as host.

Between 5,000 and 10,000 Shriners are expected to visit here Friday on their way home from the convention. The Raleigh hotel will be the headquarters of Almas temple, and entertainment and sightseeing will be furnished by the Washington Shriners.

Library, Mellon Gift,

Dedicated at College

Wallington, Conn., May 31 (By A. P.)—A library presented to Choate school, a college preparatory institution for boys here, by Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, was dedicated today.

The library cost about $200,000 and is a gift in honor of a son of Secretary Mellon who attended the school. It will bear the donor's name.

"Our friends from other countries," the Secretary said in an address, "are sometimes doubtful of the value of achievements in any other excepting material lines. I do not think this criticism can be justified. I am convinced that Americans with their great energies and genius for organization and their determination to succeed in life are not essentially a materialistic people, but we must remember that it is necessary to cultivate a love of reading and of the arts and that libraries and schools such as Choate must exist if we are to educate future generations who will carry America forward to material and spiritual development even greater than has been achieved."

Howard 1,800 Ahead In Printers' Election

New York, May 31.—The unseating of James M. Lynch, of Syracuse, as president of the International Typographical union was indicated by returns announced here tonight by Fred Cornell, administration party chairman. The vote tabulated from 689 of the 805 local unions gave Lynch's progressive party opponent, Charles P. Howard, of Chicago, a majority of 1,800 votes.

The remainder of the administration ticket, however, appears to have been elected. The same number of unions reported gave Seth R. Brown, of Los Angeles, 1,100 majority over Theodore Perry, Indianapolis, for first vice president; Austin Hewson, New York, 575 majority over George Bentley, New York, for second vice president; and J. W. Hays, Minneapolis, 1,900 majority over Woodruff Randolph, Chicago, for secretary-treasurer.

TWO ASSASSINATED; GANG WAR BLAMED

Chicagoans Killed by Bullets Fired From Passing Car; Third Man Shot.

Chicago, May 31 (By A. P.)—Two uniformed men were assassinated today by fire from a passing automobile, supposedly an outbreak of gangster tactics. The Memorial day quiet of Hyde Park was broken by the shooting at 21 First street northeast, opposite the Capitol, to get authoritative news from Paris. They might have been expected to have received the news with expressions of disappointment. Instead, they held an impromptu jubilation that the chief object of their mission to Paris had succeeded—they had secured recommendation by the board of presidents of the international alliance of their program for sex equality sufficiently comprehensive to extend to the field of industry.

The National League of Women Voters, they said, had been able to defeat their application for affiliation on the international, but had not been able, as at every foregoing congress, to defeat the program of industrial equality.

"Of course we wanted our application for affiliation acted upon favorably," said Alice Paul, leader of the National Woman's Party, "or we would not have made it. But that affiliation pales into insignificance when compared to acceptance of our principles."

"In view of the fact that publicity has been given to the assertion by the opponents of the Woman's Party that we sent representatives to Paris without invitation, I think it ought to be said that we applied for affiliation to the international alliance only after having been invited and then urged to do so by various international officers. ## GOFF PAYS TRIBUTE TO COURAGE, IDEALS OF U. S. SOLDIERS

Legion and Spanish War Men Meet at Battleground Cemetery.

JOHN W. REID URGES ZEALOUS PATRIOTISM

John Clagett Proctor Recites Poem: Children of Schools Sing.

Landing the courage and respect for humanity possessed by the American soldier, Senator Guy D. Goff, of West Virginia, delivered the principal address at joint memorial services yesterday afternoon at Battleground National cemetery by units of the United Spanish War Veterans and the American Legion. Approximately 2,500 persons attended.

Senator Goff accorded high praise to the American soldier for his ideals, and gave a general review of military accomplishments of United States troops from the early days of the Revolution until the end of the world war. John W. Reid, past department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, who acted as chairman, preceded Senator Goff with a brief address in which he urged "more zealous patriotism" and the extending of "tender sympathy to the living; sorrow for those who died in defense of their country."

Graves Are Decorated.

Music was furnished at the services by the Thirteenth Engineers band, led by Bandmaster R. W. Treichel. The program included the raising of the flag and salute to the colors, the singing of patriotic songs by the assemblage, rendition of a Memorial day poem by John Clagett Proctor, vice chairman, and an invocation by the Rev. E. V. Regester, Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read by Theodore Hardy, and the final benediction pronounced by the Rev. Benedict J. Hannemann.

Children from the Washington public schools, under the direction of Mrs. Angus Lamond, Jr., decorated the soldiers' graves, the program terminating with the singing of "America," taps and the firing of a salute to the flag. The services were attended by the Gen. Emmet Urell camp, No. 9, United Spanish War Veterans, and the Quentin Roosevelt post, No. 11, and the Augustus P. Gardner post, No. 18, American Legion.

PRESIDENT TAKES STAND FOR PEACE

dress, President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge placed a wreath at the base of the tomb of the Unknown Soldiers of the civil war. Heretofore the President has placed a wreath on the tomb of the world war Unknown Soldier on Memorial day. Following the custom he inaugurated yesterday, he will visit the world war tomb on Armistice day and the civil war tomb on Memorial day.

Both tombs were piled high with wreaths before the day was over. Likewise every grave in the vast cemetery was remembered, apples being placed on the world war graves and flags and flowers at the civil war mounds.

Veterans parade.

Preliminary to the exercises in Arlington, there was a colorful parade of veterans from the Treasury to Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue. In the lines were the veterans of three major wars—the civil war, the Spanish-American war and the world war. The parade was headed by a mounted escort and the Marine band.

At Twelfth street the marchers boarded electric trains for Arlington. On their arrival there they were served with sandwiches and refreshments. At 1 o'clock a bugler sounded assembly and the big amphitheater began to stir with life. Dr. Charles V. Petters, commander of the Department of the Potomac, G. A. R., called the exercises to order at 1:30 o'clock. The colors were then presented by John Middleton, the officer of the day. This ceremony completed, Mrs. Ruby Smith Stahl sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. George F. Dudley, Gen. Logan's order establishing Memorial day was read by Dr. H. A. Johnson, assistant adjutant general. Gertrude Lyons then sang the "Bugle Retreat," accompanied by the Marine band. This was followed by a recitation of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, by Capt. Lemuel Warner. After the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" had been sung by the Washington quartet, President Coolidge took the rostrum to deliver his address.

Senator Willis Speaks. The President was followed by John Clagett Proctor, who read an original poem entitled "Arlington." The next speaker was Senator Frank B. Willis, of Ohio. Complicated international machinery can never bring about peace, Senator Willis declared. He was just as sure that it would never be achieved by the adoption of resolutions. Abandonment of preparation for national defense, he said, would invite insult and lead to war.

"America is for peace," he said, "but it must always remain free. It will help others voluntarily, but not under compulsion. It will never surrender its sovereignty as a nation to any world government. So far as peace can be promoted by conference, by discussion, by law, America has aided and will aid in such promotion; but it will at all times maintain its own independence of action unshaken and unafraid."

St. Gaudens' Lincoln Statue Dedicated

Chicago, May 31 (By A. P.).—

After waiting for 37 years, Chicago observed Memorial day by unveiling the St. Gaudens statue of Lincoln in Grant park, and a parade of 50,000 marchers. The statue was provided for by a $100,000 bequest in the will of John C. St. Gaudens, who died in 1889. St. Gaudens began work on the statue in 1897 and completed it shortly before his death in 1907. The unveiling was delayed by the casting of the statue in bronze. It represents Lincoln at a later period than that of the St. Gaudens statue in Lincoln park.

The parade included the veterans of three wars, Boy Scout troops and students from military academies and was reviewed by Gov. Len Small, Mayor William E. Dever and Maj. Gen. William S. Graves.

GEORGETOWN SCHOOL OF LAW HONORS DEAD

Col. Easby-Smith and Father Lyons Principal Speakers at Exercises.

America's war dead, including the 28 former students of Georgetown university school of law who gave their lives "for justice and country" during the world war were eulogized by speakers yesterday morning at services held in the library of the law school.

Col. James S. Easby-Smith, of the law faculty, and the Rev. Charles W. Lyons, S. J., president of Georgetown university, were the principal speakers. Addresses on behalf of the senior class, under whose auspices the exercises were arranged, were made by William T. Fitzgerald and William P. Mouton. Lewis H. Dally, president of the seniors, presided. At the close of the addresses wreaths were placed over the tablet erected by a former class to the memory of classmates who died in the war. The roll of honor was read by the secretary of the class, Richard Mahar, as the members of the class and faculty, in caps and gowns, stood at attention. Then a bugler sounded taps.

American Dead in England Honored by Compatriots

London, May 31 (By A. P.).—Americans in London did honor to those of the United States army and navy buried in the British Isles at a Memorial day service this afternoon in St. Margaret's church, Westminster.

Alanson B. Houghton, the American Ambassador, and Horace Lee Washington, American consul general at London, with the staffs of the embassy and consulate and representatives of all the American societies and of the United States Shipping Board were among those present.

One of the most touching features was the presence of four veterans, of ages ranging from 79 to 83, who fought in the Federal army of the civil war. They wore their Grand Army medals, and one of them carried the Stars and Stripes. The Rev. William H. Carnegie, canon of Westminster, and the Rev. W. C. Poole conducted the services. Ambassador Houghton read the lesson.

Before the service a brief ceremony was held in Whitehall, when Capt. Henry H. Townshend, of the Second company, Governor's Foot Guards, New Haven, Conn., accompanied by other officers of the same command, and Herbert Browlie, adjutant of the London post of the American Legion, placed wreaths on the cenotaph.

When the St. Margaret's service was over, Ambassador Houghton placed a floral token on the grave of the unknown soldier in Westminster Abbey. The civil war veterans deposited a wreath at the base of the Lincoln statue in Parliament square.

THOUSANDS TAKE PART IN COMMUNITY SINGING

Event at Treasury Building Concludes Memorial Day Exercises Here.

PATRIOTIC TALKS GIVEN

Community singing by several thousand persons standing about the south portico of the Treasury building last night concluded Memorial day in the Capital. The singing, held under the auspices of the National Patriotic council, was heard by hundreds of pedestrians and motorists passing in the vicinity of Sherman square.

Mrs. Noble Newport Potts, president of the National Patriotic council, directed the chants, assisted by John Chandler Smith, bass soloist of Calvary Baptist church. Trained choirs of a number of Washington churches took part, and individual songs were rendered by Lorenzo Diatto, a Spaniard, and Mr. Smith. Miss Mary Dally accompanied Mr. Smith in a series of solos.

An address, entitled "The Light of Patriotic Memory," was delivered by Paul Hamilton Keough, young son of Maj. Frederick W. Keough. The former has just completed his freshman year in George Washington university. Last year he represented the Devitt Preparatory school in the national oratorical contest on the subject of "The Constitution."

Emphasizing the determination of her organization to maintain American ideals, Mrs. Potts also delivered a brief address, urging her hearers to fight against "insidious propaganda." She pointed out that the country is in need of support from every individual, and condemned "the ignorant, the idle thinker and the indifferent," who wish for peace without realizing the proper means of obtaining it. Mrs. Potts outlined aims and objectives of the National Patriotic Council as "love of country."

Reford L. Holmes, secretary of the council, gave a short talk stressing importance of Memorial day, and the object of the patriotic gathering. Songs by the Male Glee club of Howard university concluded the scheduled program. At the conclusion of the ceremony individual singers, choirs and audience joined in singing "The Star-Spangled Banner," accompanied by the United States Navy band.

ARMY AND NAVY UNION MEMORIALIZES DEAD

Legion Post Also Takes Part in Exercises in Northeast Cemetery.

Capt. Sylvester H. Epps and W. T. Conroy were the speakers at memorial exercises held yesterday in Northeast cemetery by units of the Army and Navy union, its auxiliary and the American Legion.

Commander John C. Harris, of the Gen. Guy V. Henry garrison, No. 9, Army and Navy union, presided. He was assisted by Commander Mary E. Dishman, of the Julia McN. Henry auxiliary, No. 2, Army and Navy union. Joining in the exercises were the Col. Charles Young garrison, No. 192, Army and Navy union, and the Kenneth Lewis post, No. 29, the American Legion.

There was a reading by Mrs. Katie Goodlow, vice commander of the auxiliary. Mrs. Dishman read the Gettysburg address. The Rev. James E. Ennis pronounced the invocation and benediction.

Flowers Strwn at Spot Where Submarine Sank

Newport, R. I., May 31 (By A. P.).—Four women today braved wind tossed seas and stinging rain squalls to strew flowers over the ocean grave of the United States submarine S-51, 14 miles off Block Island. Leaving the torpedo station here this forenoon, the naval tug Triton fought her way off shore through heavy weather to the spot where the big submarine went down in collision last September with a loss of 32 lives.

BOYS IN BLUE LAUDED FOR VALIANT SERVICE

Senator Willis, Speaking at Soldiers' Home Cemetery, Recalls World War.

United Presbyterians Vote to Meet Here

Sharon, Pa., May 31 (By A. P.).—The general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, in session here today, went on record as opposed to any referendum on the wet and dry issue. The assembly approved the action of President Coolidge relative to the use of local officers as prohibition agents.

Hospital on Site of Yankee Ball Field

New York, May 31 (By A. P.).—A great hospital is rising on upper Broadway where formerly thousands gathered to witness major league baseball games. It is the Medical Center, units of which will include the Presbyterian hospital and the Columbia university school of medicine. It was on this site that the New York Yankees, vainly tried for several years to win an American league pennant.

SONS FIGHT TOGETHER

The Boys in Blue, dwindling in number with the passing of time, were lauded for their valiant service and sacrifices by Senator Frank B. Willis, of Ohio, at memorial ceremonies yesterday in the national cemetery of the United States Soldiers' home. The services were held under auspices of the Department of the Potomac, G. A. R.

After paying tribute to the men who sacrificed all to preserve the Union and stressing the importance of preparedness for this country, he recalled how the sons of the men, who wore blue, and the sons of the men who wore gray, fought side by side for the nation in the world war.

George H. Kunsman, senior vice commander of the Department, was in charge of arrangements. Included in other patriotic organizations represented were: C. O. Howard, commander of the Army and Navy union; Maj. W. L. Peak, commander of President's own garrison, Army and Navy union; Thomas D. Walsh, commander of Vincent B. Costello post, American legion; J. Moran, commander of Gen. Chaffee cantonment, Indian war

Nicaraguan Revolt Costs Lives of 200

Managua, Nicaragua, May 31 (By A. P.).—The recent liberal revolution in Nicaragua, although of short duration, cost the government more than $1,000,000 and resulted in the death or injury of about 200 men. Government estimates indicate that the insurgents took $400,000 of government funds, 5,000 pounds of tobacco and 10,000 quarts of alcohol from government depositories at Bluefields before evacuating that place.

Elbridge Gerry Snow In Critical Condition

Stamford, Conn., May 31 (By A. P.).—Elbridge Gerry Snow, 34, prominent polo player, who was injured when thrown from his polo pony here Saturday, is in a critical condition in the Stamford hospital. He had not regained consciousness late today. He is suffering from a blood clot on the brain.

The injured man is one of the mainstays of the Ox Ridge polo team, playing a back.

FRENCH BRAVE RAIN TO BOW AT GRAVES OF AMERICAN DEAD

Old and Young of All Classes
Visit U. S. Cemeteries Bearing Flowers.

COUNTRY REMEMBERS. IS NOLLET'S KEYNOTE

Herrick Is Speaker; School Children Sing "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Paris, May 31 (By A. P.).—The memory of American soldiers, doughboys who found their last resting place in the beautifully green, epic and span Suresness cemetery, under Mount Valerian outside Paris, and other places in France set aside for them, were honored today by rich and poor alike.

Old and young of all classes braved heavy rain squalls to decorate the graves of America's dead. Beside the superb wreaths of Lorraine and Jacqueminot roses and other classic flowers from the government, from the city of Paris, the French army and the general council of the Seine department were modest bouquets of familiar poppies and other simple posies of the field and garden laid on individual graves by the trembling hands of mothers and sisters of French dead. They modestly bore, on the key-note of the speech of Gen. Nollet, in behalf of the government, at Suresness to the effect: France does not forget.

U. S. Anthem Is Sung.
Eight hundred French children sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" at Suresness, and helped to lay flowers on the soldiers' graves. Military honors were rendered by a detachment of marines from the cruiser Pittsburgh, a detachment of the famous French marines from the dreadnought Paris, crack republican guard cuirassiers, a regiment of infantry with band, a squad from the Paris post of the American Legion and a troop of Boy Scouts.

Gen. Nollet reviewed the "glorious days of Chateau Thierry and Belleau Wood," which he said, "revealed to the common enemy that a new force had entered the field and must henceforth be reckoned with. That force was as great as the sentiment which inspired it; it was noble."

"I want, personally as well as officially, to render due honor to the self-abnegation of the boys lying here who made the force great, who used it to liberate France."

Herrick and Connor Speak.

Myron T. Herrick, the American Ambassador, and Benjamin H. Connor, president of the American Chamber of Commerce, spoke after Gen. Nollet.

At the end of the ceremony the American marines fired a volley over the graves, and the 1,500 pounds already bequeathed to the American and French colors were decorated with flowers by the French school children.

The ceremonies at Belleau Wood, Bony, Serres, Thiaucourt and Roma, and at Wazeghem, in Belgium, were equally impressive. Vice Admiral Roger Welles, of the U. S. S. Pittsburgh, spoke at Belleau Wood; Col. John Bond, U. S. A., spoke at Bony, and William Phillips, American Ambassador to Belgium, was the principal speaker at Wazeghem.

Cashing Camp in Tribute At Holy Rood Cemetery.

Reverence to the memory of the warrior dead of Holy Rood cemetery, 2370 Wisconsin avenue, was paid with impressive ceremonies by the William C. Cushing camp, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, yesterday morning.

Following the sounding of assembly by the bugler and the invocation, Dr. Gilbert P. Brown, past commander of the Abraham Lincoln camp, spoke on "The Mission of Memorial Day." Lincoln's Gettysburg address was then recited, after which the national anthem was sung.

A military salute was fired by the firing squad of Company C, 121st engineers, District national guard, after which taps was sounded and the ceremony closed with the benediction.

J. Clinton Hiatt presided. The George E. Killen post, American Legion, and the Ladies auxiliary of Cushing camp participated in the exercises.

Byland's War Record Is Praised by Tydings

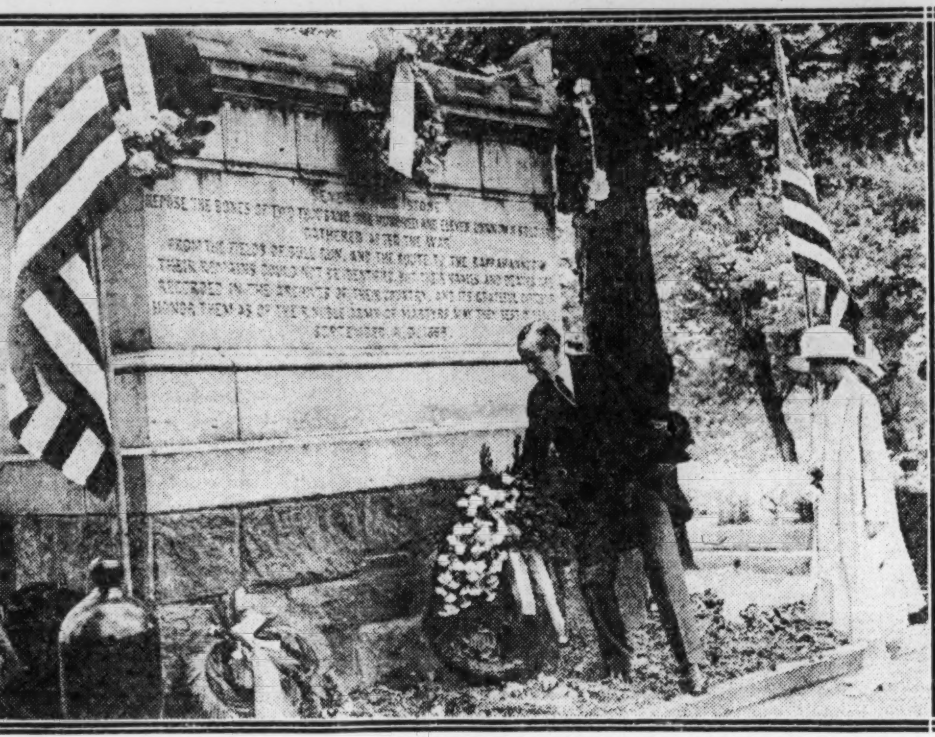

The valiant part which men and women of Maryland have played in the wars of this country was cited yesterday by Representative Millard Tydings, of Maryland, the principal speaker at memorial exercises held at the Prince Georges county world war memorial cross at Bladensburg. The rites were held under the auspices of the Snyder-Farmer post, American Legion.

Prior to the exercises a parade was staged from the National Guard armory in Hyattsville to the cross. In line were Chief of Police Robert C. Gallagher, Capt. J. Moss Edlavitch, commander of the Snyder-Farmer post, Mayor Irvin Owings, of Hyattsville, and Town Commissioners E. J. Cannon. These men also spoke at the exercises.

Wreaths were laid on the cross while Bladensburg school children sang patriotic songs. State Senator Landale E. Sasser, of Prince Georges county, was the principal speaker at exercises held last night in the Capitol Heights fire engine house.

PRESIDENT HONORS UNKNOWN DEAD OF CIVIL WAR

President Coolidge placing a wreath at the tomb in Arlington marking the last resting place of 2,111 unidentified soldiers killed in the civil war. Mrs. Coolidge looks on. By his action yesterday the President inaugurated a custom that is likely to be followed in the future, that of laying a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier of the world war on Armistice day and on the tomb of the unknown dead of the civil war on Memorial day.

COOLIDGE STRESSES PEACE

The text of President Coolidge's address at the memorial exercises at Arlington yesterday follows:

This nation approaches no ceremony with such universal sanction as that which is held in commemoration over the graves of those who have performed military duty. In our respect for the living, and our reverence for the dead in the unbounded treasure which we have poured out in blood, in the continuous remembrance of the cause of justice and truth and liberty, this action will continue. We have waged no wars to determine a succession, establish a dynasty, or glorify a reigning house. Our military operations have been for the service of the cause of humanity. The principles on which they have been fought have more and more come to be accepted as the ultimate standards of the world. They have been of an enduring substance, which is not weakened but strengthened by the passage of time and the contemplation of reason.

Our experience in that respect ought not to lead us too hastily to assume that we have been therefore better than other people, but certainly we have been more fortunate. We came on the stage at a later time, so that this country had presented to it, already attained, a civilization that other countries had secured only as a result of a long and painful struggle. Of the various races of which we are composed, substantially all have a history for making warfare which it is often times hard to justify, as they have come through various degrees of development. They bore this burden in ages past in order that this country might be freed from it. Under the circumstances it behooves us to look on the record of advance through great difficulties with much compassion and be thankful that we have been spared from a like experience, and out of our compassion and our thankfulness for the peace which has been secured, we are charged with superior duties and obligations. Perhaps no country on earth has greater responsibilities than America.

Notwithstanding all the honor which this country has bestowed upon the living and all the reverence that has marked its attitude toward the dead who have served us in a military capacity, we are not a warlike nation. As a people we have not sought military glory because of our fortunate circumstances, such wars as we have waged have been for the purpose of securing conditions under which peace would be more permanent, liberty would be more secure, and justice would be more certain. It was this principle that peculiarly characterized the forces who achieved the American Republic.

While this day was legally established many years ago as an occasion to be devoted to the memory of our country's dead, it can not be each year a reflection of the sentiment of respect and honor in which our country holds their living comrades. Of those great armies that maintained the long struggle from 1861 to 1865, which ranked in size with any the world had ever before seen, but a few shattered ranks now remain. The old valor yet lives. The old devotion to country, the old loyalty to the flag, remain. But the youth and physical vigor which caused them to be characterized and the boys in blue are gone from these heroes of a former generation.

But the spirit which they so nobly embodied has not departed from the land. It was resurgent in the days of 1898 and in 1917, and finds a final succession in the three branches which make up the land and sea forces of the present day and in the public opinion of the people. Our country has never had a better equipped army or a more efficient navy in time of peace than it has at the present time. The air service is being perfected, better quarters are being provided, and our whole military establishment is being made worthy of the power and dignity of this great nation. We realize that national security and national defense can not be safely neglected. To do so is to put in peril our domestic tranquility and jeopardize our respect and standing among the other nations.

Yet the American forces are disposed to have sent our delegates to a preliminary conference of nations now sitting at Geneva. Out of that conference we expect some practical results. We believe that other nations ought to join with us in the conviction that we are in the world, we entertain no imperialistic designs; we harbor no enmity toward any other people. We seek no revenge; we nurse no grievances; we have inflicted no injuries, and we fear no enemies. Our ways are the ways of peace.

Appeal to Common Sense.
We are attempting to make our contribution to the peace of the world not in any sensational or spectacular way, but by the application of practical, workable, seasoned methods and an appeal to the common sense of mankind. We do not rely upon the threat of force in our international relations or in our attempt to maintain our position in the world. We have seen force tried, but the more people study its results the more they must be convinced that the use of force has failed. Conditions sometimes arise where it seems that an appeal to arms is inevitable, but such conflicts decide very little. In the end it is necessary to make an appeal to reason, and until adjustments are reached by covenants which harmonize with the prevailing sense of justice a final solution has not been found.

Ever since the last great conflict the world has been putting a new emphasis, not on preparation to succeed in war, but on an attempt by preventing war to succeed in peace. This movement has the full and complete approval of the American government and the American people. While we have been unwilling to interfere in the political relationship of other countries, we have consistently refrained from intervening except where our help has been sought and we have felt that it could be effectively given, we have signified our willingness to become associated with other nations in a practical plan for promoting international justice through the world court. Such a tribunal furnishes a method of the adjustment of international differences in accordance with our treaty rights and under the generally accepted rules of international law. When questions arise which all parties agree ought to be adjudicated but which do not yield to the ordinary methods of diplomacy, here is a forum in which the parties may voluntarily repair in the consciousness that their dignity suffers no diminution and their cause will be determined impartially according to law and the evidence. That is a sensible, direct, efficient and practical method of adjusting differences which can not fail to appeal to the intelligence of the American people.

But while we put our trust not on force but on a reign of law and the administration of justice, yet we know that the maintenance of peace can not but to a large extent be dependent upon our sentiments and desires. In spite of all the treaties we may make and all the tribunals we may establish, unless we maintain a public opinion devoted to peace we can not escape the danger of war. A determination to do right will be more effective than all our treaties and courts, all our armies and fleets. A peaceful people will have peace, but a warlike people can not escape war.

Economic Condition Caused War.

Peace has an economic foundation to which too little attention has been given. No student can doubt that it was to a large extent the economic condition of Europe that drove those overburdened countries headlong into the world war. They were engaged in maintaining competitive armaments. If one country laid the keel of one warship, some other country considered it necessary to lay the keel of two warships. If one country enrolled a regiment, some other country enrolled three regiments. Whole peoples were armed and drilled and trained to the detriment of their industrial life, and charged and taxed and assessed until the burden could no longer be borne. Nations cracked under the load and sought relief from the intolerable pressure by pillaging each other. It was a catastrophe of such a nature that the government proposed and brought to a successful conclusion the Washington conference for the limitation of naval armaments. We have been altogether desirous of an extension of this principle and for that pur-

OTHER LANDS EMULATE AMERICA, WILBUR SAYS

This Nation Already Has One of Oldest Governments in World, He Holds.

Newark, N. J., May 31 (By A. P.).—Governments in the Old World have changed so since the birth of the United States that our governmental organization is already one of the oldest in the world, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur said today.

Speaking at the unveiling of Gutzon Borglum's monument, "Wars of America," the Secretary asserted that "because our institutions were developed to maintain the fundamental rights of the individual, they have more influence on older civilizations than our population or age would seem to justify."

He expressed belief, however, that this country must still be considered an unfinished experiment, for all its progress. At a luncheon after the unveiling Senator Norbeck, of South Dakota, said his State hoped to have Borglum carve in a mountain in western South Dakota a huge monument to Washington, Hamilton, Jefferson and Roosevelt. Mr. Borglum announced that he was commissioned by the State of Georgia to chisel a marble statue of Alexander H. Stephens, vice president of the Confederacy. The marble would adorn Statuary hall in the National Capitol at Washington, he said.

But if we are to maintain our position of understanding and good will with the nations abroad we must continue to maintain the same sentiments at home. We are situated differently in this respect than any other country. All the other great powers have a comparatively homogeneous population, close kindred in race and blood and speech, and commonly little divided in religious beliefs. Our great nation is made up of the strongest and the most diverse stock of nearly all the countries of the world. We have a variety of race and language and religious belief. If any of these different peoples fail to understand among us there comes a quick reaction against the rest of us from the relatives and friends in their place of origin which affects the public sentiment of that country. It is not thought it may not be actually expressed in the official actions of their government. Such misunderstandings interfere with our friendly relations, are harmful to our trade and retard the general progress of civilization.

We all subscribe to the principle of religious liberty and toleration and equality of rights. This principle is in accordance with the fundamental law of the land. It is the very spirit of the American Constitution. We all recognize and admit that it ought to be put into practical operation. We know that every argument of right and reason requires such action. Yet in time of stress and public agitation we have too great a tendency to disregard this policy and indulge in race hatred, religious intolerance and disregard of equal rights. Such sentiments are bound to react upon those who harbor them. Instead of being a benefit they are a positive injury. We do not have to examine history very far before we see how countries that have been blighted, whole civilizations that have been shattered by a spirit of intolerance. They are destructive of order and progress at home and danger to peace and good will abroad. No better example exists of toleration than that which is exhibited by those who were the gray of our country. They are not merely that of one people under one flag, but of a thoroughly united people who have seen bitterness and enmity which once threatened to sever them pass away, and a spirit of kindness and good will reign over them all.

At Peace With World.
The success with which we have met all of these emergencies is a matter of universal knowledge. We are at peace with all the world. Those of this generation who passed through the world war have had an experience which will always cause them to realize what an influence a blessing peace is. We are in an era of unbounded prosperity. The financial condition of our national government is beginning to be more easy to be borne. Many other nations and many localities within our own country are struggling with a burden of increased debts and rising taxes, which makes them seek for new resources from which to raise money. They are seeking new revenues, we have made progress toward paying off our national debt, have greatly reduced our national taxes, and been able to reduce the burden of taxation they secure of revenue. We are not required to look altogether to the future for our rewards and find in our lot nothing but sacrifices for the present. Now, here, today, we are able to enjoy those benefits which will come from universal peace and nation-wide prosperity.

As these old soldiers, the living descendants of the spirit of Washington that made our country, go down toward the setting sun, representing the spirit of Lincoln, who saved our country, they will have the satisfaction of knowing that they are leaving behind them the same spirit, still undaunted, still ready to maintain in the future a more abiding peace and a more abounding prosperity, under which America can continue to work for the salvation of the world.

JEERS GREET FASCISTI IN MEMORIAL PARADE

"Down With Mussolini." Is Cry at New York; Police Charge Disturbers.

New York, May 31 (By A. P.).—Jeers, catcalls and shouts of "Down with Mussolini!" caused by the presence of 200 fascist marchers, created a disturbance in New York's Memorial day parade. Mounted police charged and dispersed the disturbers, whose ardor, undampened by the soft rain at first threatened serious trouble.

Attired in black overseas caps with black tassels, black puttees, black breeches and shoes and the symbolic black shirts, the fascisti gathered fell in behind a band of Boy Scouts.

Officers of other units protested their presence, saying that Mussolini was opposed to the Americanization of Italians in America, but the unruly guests insisted on their right to participate along with delegations of veterans of half a dozen foreign countries.

On Riverside drive, antifascisti, numbering about 200, gathered and began jeering and shouting, pressing in menacingly upon the marchers. The crowds that lined the drive broke in confusion. Mounted police charged into the antifascisti and they fled. The fascisti continued in the parade.

Despite the day-long rain reported throughout most of the Eastern States, thousands participated in ceremonies and parades attesting remembrance of the nation's war dead. Most of the churches held services Sunday, the calendar Memorial day. A general exodus to countryside resorts in a vain hope for pleasant holiday weather thinned the ranks of the participants.

Tombs and graves were decorated and radios told of services held aboard ships at sea.

Impressive Rites Held In Oak Hill Cemetery

Impressive memorial rites, at which the Rev. St. Nicholas, pastor of the Keller Memorial Lutheran church, was the principal speaker, were held yesterday in the Oak Hill cemetery under the auspices of William B. Cushing camp, No. 31, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, assisted by the Cushing artillery.

J. C. Hiatt, past division commander of the Sons of Veterans, read the Memorial day orders, while Mrs. Rosa Rutledge read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. The salute was fired by Company C, 121st Engineers of the District national guard. Patriotic singing, invocation, benediction and the sounding of taps completed the program.

THE ROMANCE OF A MEDICINE MADE HERE IN WASHINGTON

Born In Drug Store Near Old Pennsylvania Station
In Rear of St. James.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING
IT IS SOLD EVERYWHERE

About 35 years ago a druggist located in the Metropolitan hotel on Pennsylvania avenue began making a wonderful liquid headache medicine which worked such magic that Pullman porters carried them along as first aid for passengers traveling on the Pennsylvania. Passengers were so amazed at the relief it brought they went home and sent for more. Thus in course of time Robert N. Harper's Headache Medicine became known all over the United States. The old Pennsylvania railroad station was torn down and the Harper's Headache Medicine still stood and without advertising has sold each year on merit alone. Now comes the announcement of a new and still better headache medicine in tablet form "Harper's Headache Tablets." Local druggists are featuring them. Thousands declare the tablets work like magic.

All druggists have the Harper's Liquid Headache Medicine, but if your druggist hasn't secured a stock of the Harper's Headache Tablets, send 25 cents in stamps or coin to Robert N. Harper, 467 C street, northwest, Washington, D. C. No headache or neuralgia cure on earth equals Harper's Headache Tablets—Adv.

In The Shade of Vudor

Vudor Shades are weather-proof. They transform your porch into a haven of comfort during the hot summer months.

While the sun beats down, you can sit or lounge around in the shelter of Vudor shades, protected from the hot glare. Another wonderful thing about Vudor Shades is that they allow you to enjoy the refreshing waves of coolness from summer showers without fear of getting wet.

These shades are made of woven-together strips of wood, attractively and permanently stained, which, unlike cloth, act as a non-conductor of heat. A ventilator is woven in at the top of each shade. The construction of these shades gives absolute privacy—you can see, without being seen.

You can have a Vudor Shade 6 ft. wide with a drop of $6.40
7 ft. 6 in. for only

Other sizes priced proportionately.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

THE Ambassador of Mexico and Mme. Tellez were hosts to a company of more than 1,000 guests last evening at the embassy in honor of the delegates to the second Pan-American Red Cross conference. In the receiving line with the Ambassador and Mme. Tellez was the daughter of the President of Mexico, Miss Ernestina Calles. Among the guests were the members of the diplomatic corps, official and residential members of Washington society, the delegates to the Red Cross conference and members of the Red Cross society. The reception began at 10 o'clock and an elaborate musical program started at 10:30, taking place in two music rooms, that all the guests might be accommodated. The dancing, which began at 10 o'clock, also was held in two ballrooms, with two orchestras. Mme. Tellez wore a gown of brown Brussels lace, made over a foundation of pink.

Mrs. Kellogg, wife of the Secretary of State, will depart today for her home in St. Paul, Minn., to pass the month of June. Mr. Kellogg will join her there for the week-end of June 13 and again about June 22 in time for the visit of the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Sweden June 28 and 29, who will be entertained by them.

The Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden and Crown Princess Louise will go from Philadelphia to Princeton today, where the President of the University and Mrs. John Grier Hibben will be hosts at luncheon in their honor. The crown prince and princess were entertained at a buffet luncheon yesterday which the United States Minister to Sweden and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss gave at The Oaks, their estate crowning the hills of Georgetown. The royal party departed after luncheon for Philadelphia, where they attended the formal opening of the sesquicentennial exposition. They were accompanied by the members of their suite, the Minister of Sweden and Mme. Bostrom, the United States Minister and Mrs. Bliss and Col. Oscar N. Solbert.

The Ambassador of Italy, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, returned to Washington last evening from Philadelphia, where he attended the opening of the Sesquicentennial exposition. He was accompanied there by the military attaché of the embassy, Col. Augusto Villa, and the secretary, Signor Luciano Mascia.

Dr. Charles Noble Gregory had dining with him Sunday evening Mrs. Stokes-Halkett, Miss Laura Harlan and Rear Admiral Stanton.

Obregon—Machado Wedding.
An important wedding, which took place last evening in Cuba, was that of Miss Angela Elvira Machado to Mr. Emilio Obregon. She is the daughter of the president of Cuba, Gen. Gerardo Machado, accompanying whom she visited Washington last April. The wedding took place in La Merced church, one of the most sumptuous and oldest temples of Havana, the ceremony being performed by the Archbishop of Havana.

The civil marriage took place before the religious ceremony. Dr. Clement Vasquez Bello, the president of the senate, being Miss Machado's witness, and Dr. Viriato Gutierrez, secretary of the presidency, being that of Mr. Obregon. Capt. Ricardo Firmat, aid of the president, and Dr. Ricardo Eguillor, director of justice, acted as witnesses for the issuance of the license.

The matron of honor at the religious ceremony was Mrs. Francisca Blanca Viuda de Obregon, the bridegroom's mother, while President Machado was the best man. Miss Machado's witnesses at this ceremony were Dr. Jesus Maria Barroque, secretary of justice; Mr. Laureano Falla Gutierrez, president of the Spanish Casino of Havana; Mr. Francisco Diego Madrazo and Col. John J. Cadwell.

Mr. Obregon's witnesses were Dr. Carlos Miguel de Cespedes, secretary of public works; Senator Manuel Varona Suarez, Dr. Nestor G. Mendoza and Dr. Gonzalo E. Arostegui.

The Metropolitan Opera singers, Mr. Benjamin Gigli and Mme. Elvira de Hidalgo, sang during the ceremony.

The young couple are passing the first days of their honeymoon at President Machado's beautiful country place, and afterward will visit this country.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Parsons entertained informally at supper last evening for Miss Helen Train, daughter of Mr. Arthur Train, of New York, who passed the week-end as their guest. Miss Train departed last evening for her home.

Wilkin—Keyser Nuptials.

A charmingly arranged nuptial wedding took place last evening at 8 o'clock in the Petworth Baptist church, when Miss Janice Rittenhouse Keyser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Keyser, was married to Ensign Warren Dudley Wilkin, son of Mrs. Lucinda Wilkin, the Rev. Henry Blue officiating. The church was decorated with peonies, palms and ferns, and Mr. Frank Perry played several selections on the violin, accompanied by Miss Patterson Perry, organist, and Mr. John P. Mullane sang several solo selections preceding the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white satin gown made in period style, the neckline finished with a wide bertha of satin caught on the shoulder with a cluster of orange blossoms, and the full skirt had a lace panel down the front and an underskirt of lace showing between the scallops which edged the hemline. Her veil was of tulle in cap effect and caught at each side with orange blossoms, which also formed a bandeau around the head. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride had one attendant, her aunt, Miss Juliet R. Grant, who wore a gown of pink beaded georgette made on straight lines, sleeveless, and the bottom of the skirt trimmed with a flounce of georgette. She had a picture hat of white horsehair braid with a large pink rose drooping on one side of the brim. She carried pink roses. The little flower girl, Miss Margie Lee Morris, cousin of the bride, wore pale green georgette, the dress trimmed with many ruffles of cream lace and the skirt scalloped. She carried a basket filled with rose petals.

The ring-bearer was another cousin of the bride, Jack Morris, who wore a white sailor suit. Mrs. Keyser was gown in soft swathe blue georgette, pleated and made on straight lines. The vest and insets in the sleeves were of cream lace, and there was a cape falling from the shoulders. Mrs. Wilkin wore a gown of gray georgette trimmed in blue.

Mr. Wilkins had as best man Ensign J. H. Morrill, and the ushers were Ensign W. H. Brereton, Ensign F. R. Davis, Ensign D. S. Dornier and Ensign G. A. Sinclair.

Immediately following the ceremony there was a reception at the church, for which the Sunday school had been decorated with ferns, palms and spring flowers. Afterward there was a reception at the home of the bride at 4429 Ninth street for the members of the two families and close friends and the bridal party. The reception rooms were decorated with white and pink peonies and palms.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Wilkin departed on a wedding trip to Boston and Maine, the latter wearing a brocade crepe de chine gown formed with a double jabot in front and triple tiers on the skirt. Her coat was of cadet blue and she had a small gray bangkok hat. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkin will be at home in Philadelphia.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wilkin, of Chicago; Mrs. Whertenberger, of Canton, Ohio; Dr. and Mrs. Stoner, of Ohio; Mrs. Nannie Brumback, of Luray, Va.; and Miss Pearl Aylor, of Culpeper, Va.

Sherman—Winchester Marriage.

The marriage of Miss Patricia Winchester, daughter of Mrs. Frank Winchester, of San Rafael, Calif., to Mr. Thomas Foster Sherman, son of Mrs. A. P. Sherman, of Wilton, Mass., took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Bethlehem chapel of the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, Canon William L. De Vries officiating. The church was decorated with white roses.

The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, the Rev. George M. Ward. She wore a gown of white satin and rose point lace with long tight-fitting sleeves and a bateau neckline. The lace formed a deep yoke on the bodice and also edged the long satin court train. Her veil was of tulle and was arranged about the face with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Betty Sherman, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, wearing a bodice of white and a hat of horsehair braid. She carried pink roses and delphinium. The bridesmaids were Miss Isabel Adams, of Sewickley, Pa., and Miss Adeline Kent, of California, who were gowned alike in pink taffeta and chiffon made simply and trimmed with ruffles on the side. Their hats were large and of pink horsehair, each trimmed on the side with a single rose. They carried bouquets of pink roses and blue delphinium.

Mr. N. Conant Webb, of Montclair, N. J., was best man, and the ushers were Mr. W. C. Hovey, Jr., of Boston; Mr. G. Stuart MacKenzie, of Boston, and Mr. Sherman Kent, of California.

Mrs. Winchester, mother of the bride, was gown in powder blue chiffon and had a large black hat, and Mrs. Sherman, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gray chiffon gown.

Immediately following the ceremony there was a reception at the apartment of the mother of the bride, when the rooms were decorated with pink peonies and blue delphinium.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Sherman departed on a wedding trip, the latter wearing a gown of beige crepe de chine and a hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman will return to Washington in the fall, when Mr. Sherman will take up his duties as an American foreign service officer at the State Department.

Among the out of town guests who attended the wedding were: Miss Margaret Foster, aunt of the bride, of California; Miss Frances Darling, Mrs. Eben Elston Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Chase, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Whitney, of Pennsylvania; Miss Josephine Garritt, of St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. Allice Hackett, of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Francis O'Leary, of New York; Dr. and Mrs. George M. Ward, of Palm Beach; Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, of Schenectady, N. Y.; Miss Anne Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown, of Massachusetts, and Mrs. Harry S. Taylor, of Baltimore.

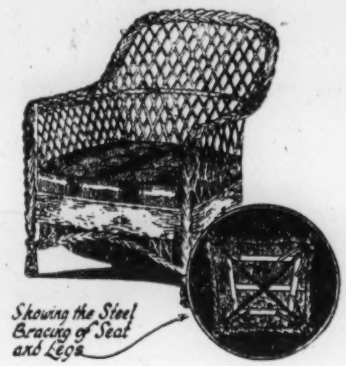

Miss Elizabeth Edwards, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Edward I. Edwards, will depart today by motor for Jersey City, accompanied by her little niece, Miss Jule Edwards, daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. E. I. Edwards, Jr. From there she will go to their summer place at Caldwell, N. J. Her parents are still in their apartment at the Wardman Park hotel.

Heinz Pure Vinegars are aromatic and abounding in flavor because of the slow, careful, painstaking way in which they are made. Patience is the watchword. You cannot hurry good vinegar along.

The vinegars are mellowed and the flavor developed by aging in wood for more than a year.

There is no other way to develop such flavor. There is no other way to make such vinegar. Buy vinegar by name, and not by guess.

RELIGION ATTACKED BY SCIENCE, IS PLEA IN SCOPES' APPEAL

Crowd Hears 7 Arguments Before Supreme Court of Tennessee.

ACT IS CONSTITUTIONAL, SON OF BRYAN ASSERTS

Darrow and 2 Others Remain to Be Heard in Second Day of the Hearing.

Nashville, Tenn., May 31 (By A. P.).—Tennessee, through counsel, arose in its supreme court today to defend its law that no theory denying the divine creation of man shall be taught in its public schools and universities.

After five attorneys had attacked the State's now famous antievolution law from all angles, Ed T. Seay, as counsel for the State in the appeal of John Thomas Scopes from a conviction in Rhea county circuit court, contended that the State has the power to protect its children from the teachings of evolutionists.

The law was argued because, after all, it was, in the eyes of the court, a misdemeanor case in which the defendant appeared as plaintiff in error on appeal from a fine of $100 imposed for teaching the evolutionary theory.

Theology and Science Involved. The indictment on which the Dayton teacher was brought to trial and the law which he was charged with violating were attacked and defended. But it was evident from the tenor of the six speeches and the written brief of Williams Jennings Bryan, Jr., that the real controversy of theology and science was of major importance.

Picturing the law as arbitrary and capricious and standing in the way of education, counsel for Scopes urged that it was unconstitutional. Mr. Seay countered by painting a hypothetical picture of a home in which the religion of the fathers had been destroyed because a "teacher" told the school boy that life began as a single cell some 18 billion years ago instead of that "God created man in His own image."

Court Room Is Crowded. Looking down from their benches, the five supreme justices of the State gazed upon a scene probably unparalleled in the history of the court. Ranged in a semi-circle about the bench were the opposing counsel. Behind them to the right of them and to the left of them, were as many people as could crowd into the small chamber. Every door and window was blocked by scores who, unable to gain entrance, contented themselves by standing on chairs and tables, hanging on with one hand to they tried to stir up a bit of air in the still court room with the other. Many others were turned away.

Scopes was not there. William Jennings Bryan, Sr., was not there. Tiring of playing the leading part in which he was cast at Dayton, Scopes has retired to the University of Chicago. Bryan, his last public utterances an argument he had prepared in this case, died soon after the trial had ended at Dayton.

One by one counsel for Scopes, and for various liberal unions and languages which have intervened in behalf of the convicted teacher, had their say before the court.

Neal Opens the Case. Dr. John R. Neal, of Knoxville, chief of counsel, opened the case by presenting an outline of the contentions on which the appeal was based.

Charles Strong, of New York, speaking for the Unitarian Laymen's league, followed with a declaration that "there are some Christians who do not believe the teaching of evolution" weakened the faith of the youth of the land.

Then came Arthur Garfield Hays, of New York, counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union, who argued that the law was unconstitutional because it was not compatible with the fourteenth amendment.

He went into the teaching of the various subjects relating to the sciences, and pleaded for the "protection of science" for the conservation of liberty and mind of education.

Science's "Onslaught" Stressed. Henry E. Colton, of Nashville, counsel for the Tennessee Academy of Science, attacked the law from a technical angle.

Robert S. Keebler, of Memphis, concluded the day's argument for Scopes when Mr. Seay began his defense of the law. He commented upon the presence of Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, and Mr. Hays in the case and read from the statements of the American Civil Liberties Union and from a published book by Darrow, but stressed the onslaught of science upon religion.

The second and concluding day's arguments will be made tomorrow by Thomas H. Malone, of Nashville, and Mr. Darrow for Scopes and by K. T. McConico for the State.

Bryan's Argument Read. The antievolution act was "the deliberate, thoughtful enactment of a sovereign people which was designed to protect their children in their own public schools in their belief in the divine origin of man, which, in turn, measures their responsibility to God and to their fellow man," William Jennings Bryan, Jr., declared in his written argument.

"This act," he continued, "contains the protest of the preponderant religious and moral sentiment of the people of Tennessee against the kind of scientific infidelity that was being taught in their schools. . . . In reality, broadly speaking, there are but two issues of law raised by the pleading in this case."

"The first goes into the sufficiency of the indictment. It is the unquestioned weight of authority in this State, as well as elsewhere, that in crimes of this grade an indictment or information in the language of the act is sufficient.

Constitutional, He Holds. "The second question—and the only one in the entire case worthy of the court's consideration—is whether the act of March 21, 1925, fairly interpreted, can be sustained as a proper and valid exercise of the police power of this sovereign State."

"We respectfully submit that the weight of authority establishes beyond a shadow of doubt that that statute, such as this, regulating the conduct of the public schools of the State, is a statute within the constitutional power of the legislature to enact."

EVOLUTION DEBATE IS CALLED LISTLESS

One Minister and No Teachers Among 150 Who Hear Discussion.

Charlotte, N. C., May 31 (By A. P.).—The debate here tonight between Dr. T. T. Martin and Howell S. England on evolution was a tame and listless affair. An audience estimated at 150 persons heard the argument. If any members of the Ku Klux Klan were present they did not wear the uniform of the invisible empire. The evolution side of the argument was represented by Dr. Martin, a native of Mississippi and representative of the Antievolution league. Mr. England, the opposing speaker, represented the Society for the Advancement of Atheism. He is a lawyer of Detroit. The Charlotte Observer said that no Charlotte or Mecklenburg county school teacher could be found in the audience and that the only local minister present was the doorkeeper. He explained he undertook the task largely as a favor to Dr. Martin, a fellow minister. One physician was found among the hearers.

The meeting was held at Lakeview, a suburb of Charlotte. "The most conspicuous group in the house," said the Observer, "was a little group of half a dozen cut-throat money snipers, 500,000 per of the hall wishing for something to happen but hardly expecting it."

crease in salaries of members and other incidentals. The State Department likewise is running ahead of last year at the rate of about 10 per cent.

A reduction of more than $32,000,000 in expenditures, however, is recorded in the Navy Department ledger during the ten months ended with April. The Interior Department, headed by Work, who seems trying to out-Coolidge Coolidge in cutting expenses, spent $8,000,000 less, and the War Department cut its expenditures by about $5,000,000. From these three departments came savings totaling $45,000,000, about half of which were offset by increased expenditures by other departments and commissions.

All told, the President's economy program resulted in spending for ordinary items $1,532,000,000 during the ten months ended April 30 last, as compared with expenditures running to $1,554,000,000 during the same period last year.

These savings were handled by an army of 263,000 Federal employees, exclusive of those on the self-supporting postal service pay rolls, numbering upward of 201,000. At least the number stood at 263,000 when the last public count was made by the civil service commission on June 30 last. A year before that the number of civilian employees stood at about 258,000. The increase during the last fiscal year was about 5,000, most of them having been employed incidental to soldier bonus law administration.

At the close of this fiscal year, one may be assured, the number of Federal workers, outside the Post-office Department, will be less than it was a year ago. And at the end of the coming fiscal year, if the President's policy prevails, it will be still less than at the close of this year. The President has a definite plan, it is reported, looking to further reduction which he will announce shortly.

Personal Services Less.

Personal services this year, according to budget bureau estimates, will cost the government about $5,000,000 less than last year—a sum which helps swell the sum available for tax reduction in the future. If the public pay roll be cut $10,000,000—as it probably will be, if the President has his way—during the coming fiscal year, so much the more for tax reduction which the President would like to recommend to the Seventieth Congress when it assembles in Washington in December, 1927.

A cut of $10,000,000 in the pay roll, a further saving of $30,000,000 in other government expense, an increase in ordinary receipts which may amount to several hundred millions of dollars, to judge by the recent underestimate of 1926 income, a continuation of high revenues from the tariff—these are the elements which will enter into the next tax cut.

Receipts Over Estimate. It all seems reasonable. For five years now the expert estimators of the Treasury Department have been forecasting, with care and caution, the coming fiscal year. They have erred, like all good estimators should err, if at all, on the side of caution. During those five years, including the present one, the government has taken in a total of more than $1,850,000,000 over and above the sum which the experts predicted it would take in.

Will the experts follow the same conservative ways of estimating in the case of next year? They will. And the President, recommending that the government spend less than the original underestimate of receipts, will find himself, as the year draws to its end, with a handsome surplus, instead of the negligible one which now appears on paper. Out of it, in large measure, will be the wherewithal for the next tax cut.

EXPOSITION OPENED BY PHILADELPHIANS; KELLOGG A SPEAKER

Secretary Would Rededicate Nation to the Ideals of Early America.

U. S. WILLING TO FIGHT FOR CHERISHED VIEWS

Hoover Pictures Progress But Warns of Dangers in Country's Path.

Philadelphia, May 31 (By A. P.). Under clouds that threatened rain at any moment, Philadelphia today opened its exposition commemorating the 150th anniversary of American independence.

The ceremony was held in the great municipal stadium, in the lower end of the exposition grounds. While guns boomed, flags fluttered and airplanes whirled about above, Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick formally opened the sesquicentennial and invited the world to participate.

A chorus of 5,000 persons was assembled in one section of the vast stadium and rendered patriotic songs between the addresses of the cabinet officers and Secretary of State Kellogg and Secretary of Commerce Hoover and the mayor. The official party entered the grounds at noon and a salute of nineteen guns was fired in honor of Secretaries Kellogg and Hoover. A review was held of the Third United States Cavalry, Troop G, First squadron, 103d Pennsylvania national guard, and details of sailors and marines from the navy yard, and then the presidential salute of 21 guns was fired.

Planes Fly Over City.

All the time the official party was proceeding from City Hall to the Sesqui grounds and while the ceremonies were in progress air salutes were given from the southern section of the city.

Asserting that the sesquicentennial exposition would represent, in its completion, the achievement of a virile and versatile people, Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg said today the exposition should be considered by a stimulation of participation to American ideals. "A fresh acceptance of America's burdens and a renewed gratitude for the bounty of America's blessings,"

Declaring that America had held fast to the declarations of liberty and human rights and those principles of government enunciated in the Declaration of Independence and promulgated in the constitution of the United States, Mr. Kellogg said that at heart the nation had not changed and that the things the founders longed for, "we still long for in so far as they have not been attained," and that "we are willing when necessary to fight to maintain those things which they fought for."

"That no nation, however," he added, "is more reluctant than our own to enter war has been shown forcibly by our stimulation and participation in all forms of international gatherings for the maintenance of peace and for the finding of methods for putting an end to war."

Hoover Warns of Dangers.

A warning that the American nation stands in need of a moral and spiritual reawakening if it is to maintain its present position in the world and withstand the dangers that beset it was sounded by Secretary of Commerce Herbert C. Hoover in his address. Mr. Hoover declared that the dangers of America today are not economic or foreign, but "the in the possible submergence of the moral and spiritual by our great material success."

Recalling some of the inventions and discoveries made in science and industry during the past half century, Mr. Hoover mentioned the steam turbine, radium, X-rays, moving pictures, talking machines, refrigeration, linotype, typewriter, the harvester, the gasoline engine, the automobile, the airplane and the radio.

"Politically we have gained greatly in national unity," he continued. "This great experiment in democracy is demonstrating the hopes, the prayers and the wisdom of its founders. Our national institutions have grown stronger and the resolute spirit for a democracy dedicated to an equality of opportunity among men has not diminished, but has gained in strength. We have risen in power and influence among nations until no foreign danger threatens our shores."

"Morally we have made gains toward a higher plane in the conduct of our commercial relations. In many particulars we show improvement in the conduct of our national and local government, though we suffer a national misfortune in the growing disrespect for law."

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

Latex from the United States Rubber Company's Plantation is transported to this country in tank steamers, is unloaded into tank cars, and so shipped to the Company's Tire Factories.

Answering Some Questions about LATEX— The New Word in Tire Building

Question—What is Latex?

A—Latex is the milky-white watery liquid that flows from the bark of a rubber tree when it is tapped. It is the source of all rubber.

Q—Why then is "Latex" a new word in tire building?

A—Because it was only when the United States Rubber Company began producing Latex-treated Web Cord that Latex was used in tire building.

Q—How is Latex used in building United States tires?

A—Every cord in a tire must be impregnated with rubber before it is built into the structure. In United States Tires this is done by soaking the cords in Latex. By this method, the cords are impregnated with pure natural rubber, giving the cords exceptional flexibility and strength.

Q—If only United States Tires use Latex to impregnate the cords, how are other tires built?

A—The cords are "solutioned" in a bath of dissolved rubber; or they are "frictioned"—rubber squeezed into the cords by roller pressure.

Q—Where does the United States Rubber Company get its Latex?

A—A large part of it comes from the rubber trees on its own plantations in Sumatra and Malaya; and the balance from neighboring plantations where the United States Rubber Company Plantation Experts know the proper quality can be secured.

Q—Is there then a difference in Latex?

A—Yes. Just as there is a difference in maple sugar, apples, peaches or pears, or the product of any tree.

Q—Why don't other tire builders use Latex?

A—The processes for using Latex were discovered, patented and are owned by the United States Rubber Company.

PRINCE IN NEW YORK HEARS 58 CHORUSES OF SWEDISH SINGERS

Heir and Wife Go Direct to Opera House on Leaving Washington Train.

HE PLACES WREATH
AT UNKNOWN'S TOMB

Legation Issues Statement of Gratification for Reception Here.

New York, May 31 (By A. P.).—Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, his wife, Princess Louise, and their royal party returned to New York tonight from Washington, and went directly to the Metropolitan Opera house to attend a concert by the American Union of Swedish Singers. The union, composed of 58 male choruses from 50 United States cities, began its annual festival last night with the first of two concerts. The crown prince is active president of the Swedish Singers union in his native country. At Pennsylvania station the prince was welcomed by Olof H. Lamm, Swedish consul general. In the prince's special car were Wollmar F. Boström, Swedish minister to the United States, and Robert Wood Bliss, American minister to Sweden.

1,000 Greet Them.
At the opera house more than 1,000 persons had gathered to see the royal party. Members of the committee in charge of the festival formed a path of entry and welcomed them to the opera clubrooms. One flight above, where Otto H. Kahn and Henry Rogers Winthrop, directors of the Metropolitan Opera company, extended their greetings. The prince and princess were seated in the box of J. Pierpont Morgan.

Stop at Wilmington.
Wilmington, Del., May 31 (By A. P.).—Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden today visited this city, the landing place of the first Swedish colonists to reach America, and the prince delivered a brief address at the old Swedes church, which yesterday celebrated its 227th anniversary. The Rt. Rev. Philip Cook, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Wilmington, presented the prince with a silver plaque bearing the likeness of the old church. The royal couple were given an enthusiastic welcome in Wilmington streets. The stop was made during a journey from Washington to New York.

Salutes Unknown's Tomb.
Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden departed yesterday at 2 o'clock for New York. The prince concluded his visit here by joining in the Memorial day observance.

The heir to the Swedish throne, dressed in the uniform that signifies his rank of major general in the Swedish army, paid tribute to the nation's dead by placing a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington. While a military guard stood at attention, he saluted the tomb, stepped forward to lay his wreath and again saluted the tomb. Following these rites he was taken through the cemetery and stopped for a short time to visit the mansion. Returning to the Capital, he appeared as honor guest at an informal reception given at the Capitol by members of the Supreme Court, headed by Chief Justice Taft. Just before his departure he attended a luncheon given by Robert Wood Bliss, the American minister to Sweden. Then with his princess and retinue he began the first stage of his journey across the country.

Royal Couple Grateful.

The Swedish legation issued a statement on behalf of the crown prince and crown princess in which the royal couple gratefully acknowledged the cordial reception given them at the White House and the courtesy of the Secretary of State and other officials.

The days passed in the Capital will be unforgettable, the statement declared. "Both the crown prince and the crown princess gave vent to their feelings of gratitude for the hospitality of which they have received so many proofs during their visit."

Their royal highnesses will retain in grateful remembrance all the persons and institutions with which they have come in contact, and the crowning event, the unveiling of the memorial to Capt. John Ericsson, they will remember as one of the most memorable events of their lives. Thanks to the splendidly organized arrangements throughout their stay, they have been able to see and experience much more than would otherwise have been possible, and have been able to derive great benefit from their sojourn.

"Royal Poppies," a poem written by Byrd Kent Dintinger to commemorate the visit of the royal couple to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, was presented to the crown prince just before he left yesterday, by the author. Another copy of the poem, illustrated by Wilmuth Gary, was placed on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, in the name of the Connecticut League of American Pen Women. Mrs. Dintinger is president of that organization.

Third New Cardinal Reported.

Rome, May 31 (By A. P.).—Cardinal Merry del Val has been appointed papal legate to the Franciscan centenary, which will be held at Assisi on October 4. La Tribuna today says that a third cardinal will be created at the consistory on June 21, possibly Mgr. Van Roey, newly appointed archbishop at Malines.

TRIAL TO DETERMINE INSANITY IS DEBATED

States is to get away from adjudication. "But the jury system is the only safeguard against railroad people in without proper examination."

To a woman's query as to what is the difference between adjudication and commitment, it was explained that adjudication is a legal judgment by the court that a person is of unsound mind. It stigmatizes them as a lunatic. It can take place without commitment.

Commitment, on the other hand, requires the necessary authority for the receipt and retention of a person in an institution. In the District, there has to be a guardian, appointed there has to be a guardian. But commitment in some States does not involve adjudication. For instance:

Colorado—A lunacy commission appointed by the judge of the county court in each case. Florida—Court appoints a committee of three, two of whom are physicians. Massachusetts—Commission on mental diseases—five persons appointed by governor, one commissioner, four associate commissioners; two of whom are physicians without commitment by judges of probate.

Nebraska—County commission of three members of whom clerk of court is one; others appointed for term of two years by judge of district court, one physician and one lawyer.

New York—State hospital commission—one physician, one attorney, one citizen charged with execution of laws governing insanity. Commitment by judges of court of records or Supreme court, upon certificate by two qualified medical examiners, accompanied by verified petition. Judge determines question of insanity, and signs order of commitment. Voluntary commitment.

The law in the District is an interesting one. It is a primitive type of legal form inherited from the common law of old Maryland. When proceedings are started, two citizens have to swear that in their opinion John Doe is a lunatic. Then two District physicians make out a medical form certifying to his insanity. He is then sent to the asylum. The law demands that 30 days after this temporary commitment he shall be tried in court—to be adjudicated or turned free. After adjudication by the court, the District commissioners issue permanent commitment papers.

House bill 13427, fathered by the Interior Department and introduced in April, 1920, and still pending, allows patients to stay in the institution without adjudication unless the patient, or some one on his behalf, or the court itself demands a hearing in court. Then it is mandatory.

The scientist thinks that the juries display emotional reaction toward situations. That there is no continuity of responsibility between different juries. Take one case: A jury recently ordered a patient discharged from St. Elizabeths as being of sound mind. Within 24 hours he shot a man in the street, and a jury sent him back. Subsequently, on a writ of habeas corpus, he was again released. In no time he was rearrested and a list found on him of those he intended killing. He is now in jail, and will undoubtedly be returned again to St. Elizabeths.

So he has had three trials, each by a different jury and a different judge.

The specialists say they have no objection to the court taking responsibility, but they are not only interested in the welfare of the patient, but also in the protection of society. Sometimes these two things don't run together. When they don't, society has to come first. As a matter of fact, if one man mistakenly discharges a patient, the public can come back on him, whereas it can't come back on a jury.

At St. Elizabeths there is an elaborate social service system. While in the institution the patients are taught things they are able to do. It industrializes them. Then prior to releasing, a social worker goes to see if the home environment is proper. An effort is made to make the family or employer understand the patient's peculiarities.

The superintendent says that the real job is to get patients ready to go out, not to keep them in.

Another guest, a rear admiral, cited the plan followed by the navy: "Those of unsound mind can be ordered to St. Elizabeths just as they can be ordered to Haiti or anywhere else. They can be kept there, too, as long as the Secretary is convinced they are mentally ill. However, the preliminaries for commitment are very elaborate. The papers pass through many channels before finally getting to the Secretary for approval. If a man is discharged from the navy and he is still dangerous, or perfectly helpless, the superintendent can not discharge him from the hospital except under proper safeguards."

"The other services follow about the same procedure."

At this point a Senator's wife who had struggled rather unsuccessfully to suppress her yawns, caught her husband's eye and made a move to leave.

"Oh, please, wait until we can vote or whether we want trials by juries, or commitments just on the say so of medical men," interposed the enthusiastic one.

Host: "All in favor of jury trials hold up their right arm. All those opposed, keep still."

"I don't believe I've made a dent on these cold legal minds," mournfully exclaimed the scientist, as he said good night, "but," more cheerfully, "you certainly have a good cook. Ask me again."

Birthday of Pope

Brings Greetings

Rome, May 31 (By A. P.).—

Hundreds of congratulatory messages today poured in on the Vatican in honor of the birthday of Pope Pius, who was born at Desio, May 31, 1857. There was no formal celebration at the Vatican. It was pointed out in ecclesiastical circles that the pontiff is entering his seventieth year in full vigor and in excellent health, despite the strain of holy year.

"BIG ED" FUREY, FREED, AGAIN FACING PRISON

Alleged "Pal" of Arnstein Seized on Old Charge as He Quits Trenton Jail.

New York, May 31 (By A. P.).—Arrested as he stepped from the State prison at Trenton, N. J., Edward Furey, known to police as "Big Ed, the confidence man," and alleged former associate of "Nicky" Arnstein, was brought back to New York today in connection with an old sentence for practicing extortion on a defaulting Wall street bank messenger.

Furey was set free in Trenton today after serving fourteen months of an eighteen-month to seven-year sentence for carrying concealed weapons. As he stepped from the prison gates detectives served him with a bench warrant and brought him to police headquarters here.

In 1924 Furey was sentenced to 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 years on the extortion charge, but execution of sentence was stayed when he promised the judge that if liberated he would confine his activities in the future to raising chickens. He had been convicted of obtaining a diamond ring and an automobile from Joseph Gluck, a runaway messenger, by posing as a detective and threatening to expose him. Gluck, who had decamped with $65,000 worth of Liberty bonds, returned later, turned State's evidence and Furey was convicted.

Furey first came into notoriety several years before the Gluck incident, when he was mentioned in connection with a $5,000,000 bond swindle in Wall street, in which his name was coupled with that of Arnstein.

Rome May Offer Villa To U. S. as Embassy

Rome, May 31 (By A. P.).—The possibility that the Italian government will offer the historic Villa Aldobrandini to the United States as a seat for the latter's embassy was suggested today by a visit which Ambassador Fletcher paid to the villa in company with Count Volpi, minister of finance. Count Volpi and Mr. Fletcher inspected the palace thoroughly, which has been interpreted in government circles as favoring the offer of the villa to America.

The villa, bearing the name of the family to which Pope Clement VIII, St. Peter Aldobrandini, belonged, is one of the most beautiful and ideally situated in Rome. It stands on high ground, surrounded by a spacious garden overlooking a large part of the city. It is a short distance from the center of activity and is within a stone's throw of the American consulate.

Spain Demands Krim; Prisoners Missing

London, May 31 (By A. P.).—Reuter's Tangier correspondent says the Spanish want Abd-el-Krim delivered to them, because eighteen Spanish officers held prisoners in the Rif have not been accounted for and also because the Rifian chief made war upon Spain before fighting the French. The surrendered Spanish prisoners are declared to be in a pitiable condition. Fez, French Morocco, May 31 (By A. P.).—Medical authorities here believe that the Spanish officers taken captive by Abd-el-Krim, who are missing from the Rifian recently given up by the Rifian chieftain, were victims of typhus.

THE MOVIES AND THE BOB

Whether the movie actresses started the bobbing craze or not, it is certain that they have accepted it and that most of the stars on the silver screen today have bobbed hair. And women, on and off the stage, find that by using the right hair-wash, any style of bob is made much more effective.

The best way to bring out the natural beauty of the hair is to shampoo it with Canthrox. This is a simple, inexpensive shampoo which can be obtained at any drugstore. Simply dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and apply it all over the head. Results will be delightful because your hair will be so soft, fluffy and never streaked. It dries quickly and is easy to do up. Canthrox also stimulates the scalp so that the hair is healthy, free from dandruff as well as dirt and excess oil. It costs only about three cents a shampoo.—Adv.

Why Do Children Like Them So?

It's the taste—that teasing, tempting, taste—that makes the youngsters ask for more and more.

Of course Heinz Rice Flakes are good for them—healthful, wholesome, nourishing rice—now made with a new flavor—by Heinz own, exclusive method.

But it's the taste—that wonderfully tempting taste—that makes these crispy, crunchy flakes so good to eat—so very, very good to eat.

Children like them. Grown-ups like them. In the morning. For lunch. For supper. They're always good, as you will know when you try your first package. It is waiting for you now at your grocer's.

Davis Urges Pay. For Blood Givers

(By Associated Press.)
Secretary Davis has asked chairmen of the Senate and House military committees to present bills which would authorize payment to volunteers, in or out of the army, who give their blood in transfusions necessary for public patients. A recent ruling by comptroller general McCarl held that army medical appropriations were not now by law available for such payments. The secretary pointed out that the need for legislation was urgent since personnel at the hospitals must be relied upon largely for transfused blood in transfusions because physically qualified civilians are not always available.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST, Clarendon, Va.
Hearing in the temporary injunction, which was granted May 21, in the case of William L. Bragg against Claude J. Ives, of Clarendon, was postponed again by Judge Samuel G. Brent yesterday until the June term of court at the Arlington county courthouse.

The temporary injunction is the result of Mr. Ives' attempt to erect an undertaking parlor in the rear of his property facing Wilson boulevard. The plaintiff contends it will reduce the value of his property. Mr. Ives is represented by Attorneys Frank L. Ball, William C. Glott and Lawrence Douglas, while the plaintiff is represented by Capt. Crandall Mackey and W. Thomas French.

pecially interested the governor, it was said, were those who would kick into the waste-basket a referendum which proposes to militate against either the spirit or the letter of the Constitution as it stands.

"If this proposal means anything at all, it means that each State shall determine for itself its own construction of the constitution. These referendums are a smoke screen to enable interested parties to Congress and the Senate to get by."

Mr. Poland said it had not been considered yet what steps would be taken to induce Senator Borah to speak here.

"The outstanding feature of Senator Borah's speech," he added, "was his recognition that ours is a republican form of government under which questions can not be decided at town meetings and that we expect our legislative affairs to be left in the hands of our representatives. We have a right to know where they stand on questions of public interest, and we exercise that right at elections."

Mr. Poland said he did not believe that Senator Borah would hesitate to speak in the State because of his friendship for Senator James W. Wadsworth.

Denying that the Antislavery league had ever paid any member of Congress for introducing or championing a bill, Wayne B. Wheeler, of the league, said in a statement yesterday that occasionally "when a congressman makes a speech for prohibition, his expenses and sometimes an honorarium are paid by the organization that arranged for it."

A congressman "who has ability enough so that the people want to hear him should not be stopped from this service simply because he is a public official," he declared. "Vice President Marshall said he had to do this when he was Vice President."

Mr. Wheeler's statement was in reply to one by Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, who has made charges relative to the league's activities and expenditures and has also urged a resolution calling for an investigation to determine whether Representative Cramton, Republican, Michigan, or any other member "has received money or fees from the Antislavery league or any other organization interested in legislation before Congress."

As to the general charges of Mr. Tinkham, Mr. Wheeler said that like "foam on beer" they had little substance.

"Tinkham's hallucinations about the league spending $2,500,000 in politics in a year is nonsense," he said. "That was the total spent for the 48 States by the national league for all purposes in the height of the campaign for ratification. Most of it was spent for educational work. In the State of Ohio alone the referendum election cost over $200,000 a year for several years. The amount spent in political campaigns was only a small fraction of that amount."

"Equally false is the charge that the league controls the appointments to the bench. We protest against those applicants who have bad records on law enforcement. Such applicants are usually strongly backed by the wets."

"It comes with poor grace for the wets to complain about league activities when sworn testimony before the Senate judiciary committee shows that the wets boycotted, corrupted and blacklisted individuals and public officials who would not do their bidding, and in Pennsylvania alone raised over $1,000,000 a year to control and corrupt the politics of the State in the saloon days. When the local wet committees file their statements under the new law they will need to watch their step. Others will."

Reports Filed.

Mr. Wheeler began his statement by declaring the records showed the league is the only organization for years that has filed reports of its political activities and expenditures, and that the wet organizations "back of Mr. Tinkham" filed "only in recent years when we drove them to it," and even these reports have not been in full accord with the law.

Coincident with the Wheeler statement, the United Committee for Prohibition Enforcement, through its chairman, Clinton D. Howard, of Rochester, N. Y., urged that "the moral forces" of Pennsylvania place an independent ticket in the field, headed by William B. Wilson, (Democrat), in order to defeat Representative Vare (Republican), for United States senator.

In addition to Mr. Wilson, the ticket would be composed of the regular Republican nominees for State offices. The committee argued that in this way the Republicans could vote against Vare without voting the Democratic ticket, which is headed by Mr. Wilson.

"Gov. Smith, Democratic wet, signs the rum referendum in New York on the same day that William S. Vare, Republican wet, wins the United States Senate nomination," the committee statement said.

"The united committee for prohibition enforcement should labor to defeat both these ends."

As to the referendum in New York, the committee said it of the drys took part, "the moral effect of a wet victory will be disastrous." A unanimous wet victory would mean nothing, it is said, adding that "a passive resistance, or noncooperation, would be advisable." It insisted the purpose was to undo by a majority vote in the State what it required two-thirds of the people functioning through constitutional channels to accomplish.

ANSWER IS OFFERED IN WATER BOND FIGHT

Arlington County Man Tells Raisers of Issue They Have Wrong Idea.

L. C. McNemar, of Clarendon, Va., volunteered an answer yesterday to the open letter sent last week to Asa C. Phillips, consulting engineer for the water supply board of Arlington county, by Robert M. Buck and James E. Chinn, residents of the county.

Mr. McNemar said the proposed water bonds to raise money to install water mains would be for 34 instead of 30 years, as stated in the open letter. He said that the water system itself would be security for the bonds. He said, although not quoting official authority, that if Jefferson district did not vote for the bonds, mains would be laid so small it never would get any water and said this did not, in his opinion, constitute a threat to coerce voters, as charged by Buck and Chinn. He said that the amount of Mr. Phillips' compensation for public service concerned only Mr. Phillips and the board of water supply.

Buck last night challenged Engineer Phillips to a public debate on the merits of the proposed system.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS'
"PEACE" MOVE FAILS

"Absoluters" and "Non-Absoluters." It Is Said, Will Divide Church Property.

Special to The Washington Post.
Danville, Va., May 31.—The union meeting, yesterday of seven primitive Baptist associations at Mill Creek church, near here, which was attended by 2,000 persons, failed to effect a reconciliation between the "absoluters" and "non-absoluters."

While both factions admonished to dwell together in brotherly affection, the lines were not lowered, and it was said by delegates today that the "absoluter" faction would go its own way and organize its own congregations, while the "non-absoluters" would decline to recognize the others as Primitive Baptists.

The church property, it is said, will be divided according to the numerical strength of the two factions. There are several churches in this district in which the "absoluters" are in control. E. Cope and, clerk of the Baptist council, was authorized yesterday to prepare a review dealing exhaustively with the church situation. The next meeting will be held at High Point, N. C., August 28.

Quarrel Over Still

Caporala, who is stabbed in the breast, shoulder and back, is at the Western Maryland hospital. Caporala was so infuriated that officers had to carry him to the ambulance. It is said that trouble arose between the men over the alleged possession by one of the Monteleone brothers of a still.

Posses Hunt Slayer
Of Deputy Sheriff

Hendersonville, N. C., May 31 (By A. P.).—Search was under way near here today by officers and citizens for Fred Shelden, negro slayer of Deputy Sheriff H. L. Capps, who was killed Saturday night. Feeling is running high. Last night the posse searched Henderson county and adjacent towns for the negro.

The shooting occurred when officers were returning here with Myrtle Means and Shelden, who had been arrested charged with violation of the prohibition act. Shelden is declared to have killed Capps after persuading the officer, by a ruse, to alight from the automobile in which they were riding.

A MODERN MARRIAGE

An Absorbing Novel
By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

SYNOPSIS.
Kathryn Leonard, believing in the "new freedom" for women, having blocked the entry into her home of Elton Foss, hears a revolver shot. Foss' dead body is found by the police after Rodney Evans, secret husband of Kathryn, emerges from the shadows nearby. Evans, arrested on suspicion, tells Richard Starmount, his attorney, that he, Evans, has killed Foss. Evans' fingerprints are found on Kathryn's revolver which he had placed in Foss' pocket. As Kathryn, overcome by the tragedy, is being removed to a hospital, Starmount hears a familiar voice in the crowd at the curb. This incident and those which the inquest revealed—a short, thick-set man seen near the scene of the murder, a young woman who had asked Kathryn's maid for her hat soon after Foss was killed, and an anonymous letter in which the writer accuses Foss of having been slain by a man whose wife Foss had wronged, lead Starmount to doubt Evans' confession and to strengthen his belief that his wife, Kathryn, is guilty. Suspicion points, too, to Vernon Stedman, rich broker, with whom Foss quarreled bitterly on the day he was killed. The attorney induces Kathryn to write the story of her life for the daily newspapers, so as to sway public opinion. In her autobiography Kathryn tells of Rodney Evans' proposal of marriage. Kathryn writes how she tried to tell Evans her contempt for the marriage ceremony. The accused wife sees the web of suspicion tighten. Kathryn realizes how foolish was her determination to keep her marriage secret. Stedman's inability to give a complete alibi leads to the theory that he is trying to shield a woman. Kathryn admits that she destroyed her marriage certificate. The police enter Kathryn's room to obtain her fingerprints. Starmount's suspicion of Kathryn grows. Kirby, star reporter, is astounded by Kathryn's tactics as to her marriage certificate. The trail still points to Stedman. Starmount is ready to sacrifice Kathryn to save Evans, her husband. The minister who married Rod and Kathryn is telegraphed by the former's attorney. Kathryn writes how she tried not to love Rod before their marriage. Kathryn's story tells her strange ideas as to marriage.

CHAPTER XXXVIII. The Hour Has Come.

I REMEMBER in writing to Rodney I said: I wish I did not have to think of it but whenever I am filled with the joy of your love I am afflicted by the thought of losing it.

Instinctively I have tried to choose. Were it better to put my love away in lavender where I might go sometimes and enjoy its fragrant memory than to grasp its immediate bliss, only to find my hands, that I had thought full to overflowing, empty—empty? Even if one does not have so much happiness, one does not have so much sorrow.

Yes, I know, dear, that until some other and better thing is worked out of our future civilization in regard to marriage, the safety of the race demands—and rightly—that there should always be some legalized action taken by the people who intend to become partners in the great business of carrying on the race.

I do not acknowledge that there is anything about the ecclesiastical marriage ceremony that seems to make its bonds any more holy or less likely to be broken than those entered into at the office of a justice of the peace.

The mere fact that two people love each other truly and loyally makes their union holy whether they plight their vows under civil or church rules.

I love you, Rodney. I want you for my husband. I want to be your wife, consequently I want that union to be legal because I believe it necessary to be a good citizen of my country, and I want to keep all of its laws.

I am selfish enough, however, to want that union to last forever, something that the mere promising by either you or me will not affect either one way or the other.

We are both human beings, Rodney, with many human frailties and the usual virtues. We should know that the one thing of which every human being is the most tenacious is his individuality.

Love is always antagonistic to individuality. When one loves, one wants to possess—to all men and women, love means desire, to have and to hold—consequently there is always an unconscious war between husband and wife, which is a constant battle for supremacy.

I am one of those new women who have the same desire to express themselves that men have, and it makes for great unhappiness if the newspapers and criminal courts are to be believed.

I am afraid of marriage; rather, Rodney, I am afraid of constant and intimate companionship.

You say "Marry me, Kathryn," and I answer, "I will" if, as far as the world and our friends are concerned, it will be kept a secret.

I know that this will probably mean more or less gossip but I am willing to hear even scandal if we can keep love always with us.

Here is my plan: We will go up to some sparsely inhabited mountain region and be married by a justice of the peace. Then we will have a glorious week or two together in a cabin or tent, just you and I. We will come back to work. I will retain my own name. I shall support myself as I always have done. I shall keep my own studio apartment and you shall keep yours. In our minds, or hearts or our lives there shall be no bonds except the bond of our mutual love.

Your friends need not necessarily be my friends, no mine yours—any more than they are now. I shall not feel that I have the right to criticize your comings and goings any more than I shall allow you to criticize mine. You shall be punctilious as you are now when you ask me to accompany you to dinner or to the theater and I shall do as I have done in the past and give you special invitations to dine with me in my little studio apartment.

You shall not feel at liberty to come to me unless I invite you and you may refuse my invitations if you are so inclined.

If you can subscribe to all this we shall conform to the old conventions of the wedding ceremony, but we shall make our married life one in which both of us are thoroughly free and independent.

I am sure that when we are not bound we shall seek each other. If we were bound we would seek some other.

Darling, I am waiting for you. Instead of your going up to the camp in the Adirondacks, where you told me you were going last night, follow me to the wildest place I know in the Great Smoky mountains in Tennessee.

I am leaving for the South immediately. I haven't a doubt that you will not be as happy in this unconventional marriage of ours, as I know I am going to be.

I have been unconsciously planning all my life this kind of union with the man I would love.

My hour has come. I shall wait impatiently for you in Knoxville. If you are not with me by the end of the week, I shall know that my plan has not suited you and we will separate before instead of after marriage and each go his own way.

Until I hear from you or see you I am yours and your only,

KATHLYN.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD COLLEGIATE—VERY.

Dear Miss McDonald: I shall be very grateful if you will print an answer to my letter in your column. We are juniors at college, and he is one year my junior. We went together for almost a year and got along splendidly; he was such a dear boy and so devotedly attentive. He never looked at another girl, and we went everywhere together, and he assured me again and again that I was the "sweetest girl in the world," &c., and that he had not the least desire to take other girls out (oh, he had flattered down to a profession). Soon he stopped taking me places, "out of funds" was his excuse, but I was so blind that I didn't notice that he went everywhere he wanted to, regardless of cost, and when I suggested, in a nice way, that he give up going out once in a while himself and go with me, he informed me that he saw no reason under the sun why he should, since his folks gave him only a little money with the understanding that it was for his own use, and that if I was going to take that attitude, we'd better quit, because he resented having any girl feel that he was in any way obligated to her. The other night he took out a girl from the fast set, telling me afterward what an enjoyable evening he'd had, adding that he didn't care for her the way he did for me and that he'd surely tire of her after a few nights out with her. He says he really loves me, but he wants a good time while he's young. He wants to feel free to take out any girl whom he chooses and still be able to come up or take me out when he wants to, and says he will willingly go without my kisses, which I refuse to give unless he goes with me. (You see he is so sure of himself and his powers of persuasion, he thinks he can coax me into it.) Shall I let him come out occasionally? If I do this, I shall be mind him of my existence, he not consequently coming to furnish him with "good things" (I have always regarded him as a symbol of deep affection) shall I break with him and shall I let him come out while and meanwhile, of all I can myself?

Never again, under any circumstances, receive this year's chimpanzee ideas. Not the mentality as underdeveloped as same proportion that has appeared to believe you are low-grade mentally as he is in this world of millions of hearted, two-fisted men who not find even one to lead in the movies, then in the womanhood pay your dues alone.

Dear child, never as a live argue with a man on the subject of his indifference. When in doubt—get rid of it. So send this campus chimpanzee his way instead of bargaining his time in exchange for his And, just by way of relieving overcharged brain, I should ask just what your college has done for you? Have you asked yourself?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Space will not permit or the subject is not suitable, letters will be fully answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or give individual advice. Requests for such service can not be answered.

NEW FEVERS FOR OLD.

YELLOW fever has gone. Malarial fever seems headed for the scrap heap. Typhoid is kicking, but at that it is about half dead. Bovine tuberculosis in the human subject is almost wiped out in cities. But—here comes other fevers to bite 'em—and so on, ad infinitum.

Poultry tuberculosis is growing up. When we eat rabbits and some other small animals we are in danger of tularemia. Paratyphoid fever may be on the increase, or maybe we are hearing about it because its cousin so rarely appears in the public print (funeral notices).

And now comes undulant fever. This new form of fever is at least a cousin to the well known Malta fever of which our population who came from or who go to the Mediterranean countries know so much about. There are some who think that undulant fever, now appearing in this country, and Malta fever are really the same.

One of the troubles which make the dairy farmers unhappy is contagious abortion of cows. The bacillus which causes this is well known. Once it gets a foothold in a dairy herd it is almost impossible to root it out. Furthermore, it gets into the milk. A study of San Francisco raw market, milk made several years ago showed this bacillus present in great abundance. Miss Alice Evans proved that the bacillus of contagious abortion was a very close relative of the bacillus of Malta fever.

In a list of studies quoted by Huddleson we find such titles as: "Does the contagious abortion bacillus cause disease in man?" (1916). "Can Malta fever bacillus and abortion bacillus infect monkeys?" "A case of Malta fever originating in Baltimore." "Cattle as a possible source of Malta fever." "Infectious abortion in cows and its possible reaction to human health." "The role of the domestic cow in causing undulant fever." (1924).

Huddleson reports a case of undulant fever in Lansing, Mich., which was caused by drinking raw milk from a dairy the cows of which had contagious abortion. Then he learned of another case. This one was also a graduate student in the agricultural college, and he contracted his disease by drinking raw milk from the same dairy.

The question arises: If contagious abortion is so widespread in cattle and so much of the raw milk contains the bacillus, why is it that so few people have undulant fever? There are several reasons. One is that so many people drink pasteurized milk now. Another is that not many know undulant fever when they encounter it. It is called chronic malaria in some places, but quinine will not cure it. In the third place, the disease does not spread readily. A big dose is needed. Where the milk from one cow is mixed with that from many cows the dose of bacilli in each of milk is, too small to do harm.

Which, incidentally, is an argument against the milk cow.

SPINAL CURVATURE.

E. M. R. writes:
1. What is curvature of spine?
2. What is it caused by?
3. Can it be remedied?

REPLY.

1. An unnatural curve of the backbone.
2. There are many causes. Among them are: Tuberculosis of the backbone; chronic lung trouble; faulty posture; certain kinds of work.
3. In tuberculosis the deformity and the fever are stopped. Not much of the cure can be overcome.

For fifteen years the house was neatly kept. The floors each morning were swept. The chairs were dusted and held their place. Like guards of honor, stern and grim of face, they called it home, for love and there, But love needs more to feed than a chair.

Order is Heaven's first law, sages say. I think myself, God smiles on array. The disarray of little girls' toys, The blbs and frocks, the bits of lace Which show there is a baby in place.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi is enthusiastic about tennis. It's a pretty sport, especially when one wears a tennis costume that a certain tennis champion made popular. It is a sleeveless white crepe de chine dress with a green cardigan sweater. The hard-won cups in the background give the atmosphere of championship.

Golf is such a fascinating game. Mitzi is thinking that it should be taken seriously. Here you see her looking very handsome in a sweater with stripes across it. Perhaps it would be nice to win a cup or two and have one's name engraved across the front, Mitzi thinks.

Mitzi Plans for the Tournament

Mitzi does look modest. Or is it guilty? She has been inspecting the cups in the background very closely. Which does she want? One should decide first and then take up the sport of winning it. Mitzi wears a most becoming tailored two-piece dress made of madras shirting material.

This street given up sports man of the Com places her in as she go out and self? (Personal Mitzi will ever herself.)

BELVO TWIST

an exclusive summer fabric
by Society Brand

You can't beat it for a fine summer fabric. Belvo Twist is a light porous weave, but very strong, with plenty of body to the cloth—it will take the very finest of tailoring. Cool though, as cool as anything you can put on. Ideal, on every count.

don't know last night. According to Mrs. H. C. Smith, who had recently moved into the home of Mr. Lindsey, was cleaning the yard and was burning trash, when suddenly there was a violent explosion. Mrs. C. R. McGonaga, living about 300 feet away, was in her back yard at the time. She narrowly escaped serious injury as a piece of metal flew past her head.

With the election of town officers of Potomac only a week off, the campaign is waxing warm with leaders of the law and order and citizens ticket both claiming victory.

William M. Kleysteuber, candidate for mayor on the citizens ticket, claims the citizens are fighting for a change in the officers of the town.

Walter U. Varney, corporation attorney, declares the present officers, representing the law and order ticket, will carry the election.

Raiding the home of Viola Lipkins, colored, of East Arlington, yesterday, Deputy Sheriff Harry L. Woodyard and Officers Raymond Crack and John R. Burke seized 2 gallons of alleged corn whisky. She was taken to the Arlington county jail and will be given a hearing before Judge Thomas today.

With the election of officers, the George Washington chapter, Order of De Molay, will be perfected at a meeting in the Masonic temple at Clarendon tonight at 8 o'clock.

Pupils of the Lyon Park Elementary school will give an entertainment, consisting of folk dances, games and a playlet, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the school building under the direction of Miss Elsie Bloxon and Miss Louise Lankford, teachers.

A sale of cakes, pies and candy will be conducted by a committee for the Parent-Teacher association. The proceeds will be added to the fund being raised to purchase playground equipment. The committee in charge is headed by Mrs. J. C. Folsom and includes Mrs. Frank T. Stone, Mrs. Fayette Nimmeyer, Mrs. Roy Nisewander and Mrs. Alvin Bohrer.

The Lyon Park Citizens association, through a special committee, is working to get out the voters for the coming water bond election June 15. Every home will be canvassed this week, and arrangements have been completed to have a number of automobiles at the Lyon Park station at 5:30 tomorrow evening for the purpose of conveying those desiring to register to the two voting precincts, one in Clarendon and the other in Arlington.

According to C. K. Lewis, chairman in charge of obtaining signatures to applicants of water, 161 have signed. A further report will be announced Thursday night.

The election of town officers for the town of Falls Church will be held June 8. Unless others qualify as candidates tomorrow before midnight, which is the time limit for filing, the ticket will stand as follows: For mayor, Harman B. Greenman, First ward, William T. Westcott; Second ward, R. E. Kendrick and J. V. Turner, and Third ward, L. P. Daniel and J. O. Martin.

was only a small fraction of that amount. "Equally false is the charge that the league controls the appointments on the Federal bench. We protest against those applicants who have had records on law enforcement. Such applicants are usually strongly backed by the wets. "It comes with poor grace for the wets to complain about league activities when sworn testimony before the Senate Judiciary committee shows that the wets boycotted, corrupted and blacklisted individuals and public officials who would not do their bidding, and in Pennsylvania alone raised over $1,000,000 a year to control and corrupt the politics of the State in the saloon days. When the local wet committees file their statements under the new law they will need to watch their step. Others will."

Reports Filed.

Mr. Wheeler began his statement by declaring the records showed the league is the only organization for years that has filed reports of its political activities and expenditures, and that the wet organizations "back of Mr. Tinkham" filed "only in recent years when we drove them to it," and even these reports have not been in full accord with the law.

Coincident with the Wheeler statement, the United Committee for Prohibition Enforcement, through its chairman, Clinton D. Howard, of Rochester, N. Y., urged that "the moral forces" of Pennsylvania place an independent ticket in the field, headed by William B. Wilson, (Democrat), in order to defeat Representative Vare (Republican), for United States senator.

In addition to Mr. Wilson, the ticket would be composed of the regular Republican nominees for State offices. The committee argued that in this way the Republicans could vote against Vare without voting the Democratic ticket, which is headed by Mr. Wilson.

"Gov. Smith, Democratic wet, signs the rum referendum in New York on the same day that William S. Vare, Republican wet, wins the United States Senate nomination," the committee's statement said. "The united committee for prohibition enforcement should labor to defeat both these ends."

As to the referendum in New York, the committee said if the dyes took part, "the moral effect of a wet victory will be disastrous." A unanimous wet victory would mean nothing, it is said, adding that "a passive resistance, or noncooperative boycott of the referendum would be advisable." It insisted the purpose was to undo by a majority vote in the State what it required two-thirds of the people functioning through constitutional channels to accomplish.

Dr. Reavis Reported Improved.

Charlotte, N. C., May 31 (By A. P.).—The condition of Dr. J. O. Reavis, of Nashville, Tenn., held secretary of foreign missions for the Presbyterian Church of the United States, was described as "improved" today. Dr. Reavis yesterday underwent a major operation here.

When the "absoluters" and "non-absoluters" were both factions admonished to dwell together in brotherly affection, the lines were not lowered, and it was said by delegates today that the "absoluter" faction would go its own way and organize its own congregations, while the "non-absoluters" would decline to recognize the others as Primitive Baptists.

The church property, it is said, will be divided according to the numerical strength of the two factions. There are several churches in this district in which the "absoluters" are in control. E. Copeland, clerk of the Baptist council, was authorized yesterday to prepare a review dealing exhaustively with the church situation. The next meeting will be held at High Point, N. C., August 28.

Quarrel Over Still Results in Stabbing

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 31.—August "Gus" Caporale, 47, who conducts a store and bakery, and who was stabbed last night in his store, has accused James Monteleon, a fellow countryman, of the attack. Monteleon escaped in an automobile.

Caporale, who is stabbed in the breast, shoulder and back, is at the Western Maryland hospital, Caporale was so infuriated that officers had to carry him to the ambulance. It is said that trouble arose between the men over the alleged possession by one of the Monteleon brothers of a still.

Posses Hunt Slayer Of Deputy Sheriff

Hendersonville, N. C., May 31 (By A. P.).—Search was under way near here today by officers and citizens for Fred Sheldon, negro slayer of Deputy Sheriff H. L. Capps, who was killed Saturday night. Feeling is running high. Last night the posse searched Henderson county and adjacent towns for the negro.

The shooting occurred when officers were returning here, with Myrtle Means and Sheldon, who had been arrested charged with violation of the prohibition act. Sheldon is declared to have killed Capps after persuading the officer, by a ruse, to alight from the automobile in which they were riding.

Carrots May be Served In Several Tasty Ways As Recipes Below Show

WE have for today, as I promised on Saturday, a menu with recipes from M. M. Cutter. This reader plans for us an attractive menu in which to dispose of the lamb that still adorns our larder shelf and of which, by this time, we shall be more than relieved to see the last. You will feel confident, find lamb soufflé attractive and appetizing.

DINNER MENU

Halves of Grapefruit.
Lamb Soufflé.
Mashed Potatoes. Peas.
Hard Rolls (Hot).
Macedoine Vegetables Salad with French Dressing.
Snowballs.
Demitasse.

Lamb Soufflé.
Melt two tablespoonsful of butter and stir in two tablespoonsful of flour. Add gradually one pint of milk, stirring until thickened. Then add two cups of buttered bread crumbs, one teaspoonful chopped parsley, one-fourth teaspoonful pepper and one of salt and three egg yolks, well beaten. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and pour into a greased baking dish and bake in a slow oven for 25 minutes.

Snowballs.

Beat the yolks of three eggs slightly and add one cup of granulated sugar and beat. Stir in three tablespoonsful of water and the grated rind of one lemon, two tablespoonsful of lemon juice and one scant cup of flour with one-half teaspoonful of baking powder. Add the beaten whites of the eggs, mix lightly and steam three-fourths of an hour in a buttered pudding dish or pudding cups. Serve hot with the following sauce:

Lemon Sauce.

Cream one-fourth cup of butter with one cup of sugar and add one-half cup of cream, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and cook in a double boiler until creamy.

This contributor neglected to add the recipe for Macedoine of Vegetable Salad, and I am therefore going to take the liberty of adding our own.

Dress with French dressing in which a clove of garlic has been allowed to stand for several hours. Any combination of fresh vegetables that you can arrange for, those that are on hand augmented by a few provided for the occasion. Cauliflower, peas, carrots and celery are the usual kinds for this salad. Arrange the several vegetables in little piles on a large salad plate or platter, garnish in between the piles with hard cooked eggs and quarters of fresh tomatoes, and a few gherkin pickles. The whole may be garnished with thousand island dressing, French dressing, or plain mayonnaise dressing. The charm of this salad is in its arrangement, as it is not difficult to see. Great neatness must be accomplished, and fresh, crisp lettuce leaves should line the dish upon which the salad is arranged.

In glancing through a little folder that came to my desk from a friend in the far West, I saw a short paragraph that will, now that straw hats are not in moth balls any longer, no doubt be of interest to you. Children's hats especially, that seem to soil over night may be made less of a burden in this way. Hats that have become yellow will undoubtedly profit for a dose of this treatment, and a hat that is beyond hope as a headress, will certainly not be the worse for experiment. At any rate it would seem worth trying. Get a little peroxide from a drugist and with an old tooth brush rub it thoroughly into the straw. Rinse the hat in cold water (not under the faucet, but with the brush in the same manner), and dry in the open air, but not in the sun.

We have decided upon the second week in June as the time to start our third contest, and this time our prizes are to be increased again—a first prize of $5, a second of $3 and five third prizes of $1 each—that more readers who send in their recipes may receive for them "honorable mention." The details of this contest are nearly ready, and the rules governing it will be as before. We shall announce the subject of the contest in the very near future, when the housekeeper has returned. There will be no appointments at the studio this first week in June as the housekeeper is to be out of the city. Coupons will be received, however, and in the order of their arrival appointments will be made and cards sent out. I hope to bring back with me many new and unusual dishes for our column to pass on to our readers.

BETHESDA WOMEN TO PLAN CLUBHOUSE

Group Will Discuss Project at Next Meeting; Large Site Purchased.

Plans for the erection of a new clubhouse and open-air theater will be discussed at the next meeting of the Bethesda Women's club, according to officials of that organization. The club has just purchased approximately 39,000 square feet of land in "Sonoma," about one-half mile north of Edgemoor and Battery Park.

Mrs. Fred Emory is chairman of the building committee. The Bethesda Women's club is nonpartisan in character and is one of the most influential organizations in nearby Maryland. It has played an important part in all civic affairs of Montgomery county for many years. Need of a clubhouse of suitable proportions has been felt for some time, officials of the club explain, but no proper site was available until "Sonoma" was placed on the market.

N. B. Visitors in Washington. You will find it profitable to turn to The Post's classified pages if you are seeking temporary room and board of the sort sure to be satisfactory.

I have here a list of names of ladies who wish to come to our second lemon pie party, which is also to take place upon the return of the housekeeper. If any one else wishes to come will they fill in their coupon at once and mail it to the department that cards may be sent you. This demonstration

PERFECTION Oil Cook Stoves and Ovens

Come in and see why a PERFECTION STOVE means better cooking and greater convenience in doing it. Two, three and four burner sizes. Thompson Brothers 1220-22 Good Hope Rd. Anacostia, D. C. Lincoln 554. Unrestricted Parking Space.

will take place on Tuesday, June 15, at 3 in the afternoon.

I had your letter some time ago, Mrs. McKenna, and wish very much to see you again. We shall mail you a card with an appointment to take place shortly after my return and hope that this will meet with your convenience. If the date and time allotted you is not satisfactory will you call me on the telephone, please?

Many things may be the matter with your biscuit, Mrs. Howdeler. From your description I strongly suspect that they are not moist enough, but it is difficult to say. Absent treatment is at best unsatisfactory. Suppose, rather than be satisfied with what I am able to give you through the column, you send a coupon to me and we try out this recipe of yours, and if it is not the fault of the cook but of the formula, substitute a new one. As you are a very busy person it will probably be better for you to come to us at a time arranged between us over the telephone. Send in the coupon and then call us, and then we will fill out your card.

One more answer and we shall have done for today. No, Mrs. Wade, oysters are not even a half safe bet at this time of the year. Very true, some people may eat them all summer long and suffer no ill effects, and you may still be the one unlucky person, but, having been the unlucky person you will, I feel quite sure, regret it for many days. The water is too warm, and oysters should be served only from cold water, during the months in which the letter "R" appears. There are other seafoods that are safe and delicious. Crab meat will be less expensive soon, and there are no end of ways in which it can be served deliciously. Lobsters get to be within the reach of one's purse strings, and numbers of fish that are not shell fish, as well. Give up the oyster idea entirely. It is the better part of valor. I am sending you a group of fish suggestions, also your bread muffins. Yes, coffee will make you nervous, but not excessively so if taken in moderation, say a cup or even two at breakfast, and no more all day.

Look for this sign

in store windows

All this week you can see practical demonstrations of the Perfection Stove six famous cooks have tested and endorsed. Look for above sign in store windows. See the stove today and judge for yourself what the experts approve. Prices and sizes to suit every need.

THIS PERFECTION is the model the six famous cooks used in their tests. It is being demonstrated today at all dealers, along with other Perfection models. See its actual performance with your own eyes. You'll be convinced the experts are right in endorsing Perfection Stoves!

Cooking begins when you touch a match to the wick. No time lost in heat generation. Clean, intense heat flows up the long chimney direct to your cooking. Every drop of oil is completely burned before the heat reaches utensils so they are kept clean and unstained.

Each burner is independently operated and capable of every range of heat. You can bake, boil, broil, fry and simmer on a Perfection—all at one time. Adjust the flame for any cooking process and it remains as you set it. Be sure to see the Perfection demonstrated today. In size from two to five burners.

Ideal stove for camping. Fast Perfection burner, protecting wind-shield, ever cool handle. Stands firm on circular base. Won't tip easily.

Four pieces of tempting brown toast quickly made at one time on this Toaster. Handle is always cool.

Add variety by broiling meat in a Perfection Broiler. Cooks on both sides at same time due to special construction. Turning unnecessary. No juice can drip into flame. Easily cleaned.

"No mistaking at all," reports New Orleans authority.

"Utensils free from soot," says Philadelphia cooking expert.

"Cooks as quickly as gas," says Bettie Creek expert.

Superfex range with fast-as-gas burners and built-in oven. The stove for those who want the best. Warming cabinet easy to clean and prevents grease splattering walls. One of many Perfections being demonstrated today.

SOCIAL ON RADIO TONIGHT.

Songs of 1808 Will be on Program of WRC.

The fourth and concluding "Ice Cream Social," a radio presentation arranged by the Bryer Ice Cream Co., will be broadcast tonight by stations WRC and WJZ, New York, beginning at 7 o'clock. The "social" to be represented in the radio entertainment will be reminiscent of the year 1808, and will include musical compositions popular at that time.

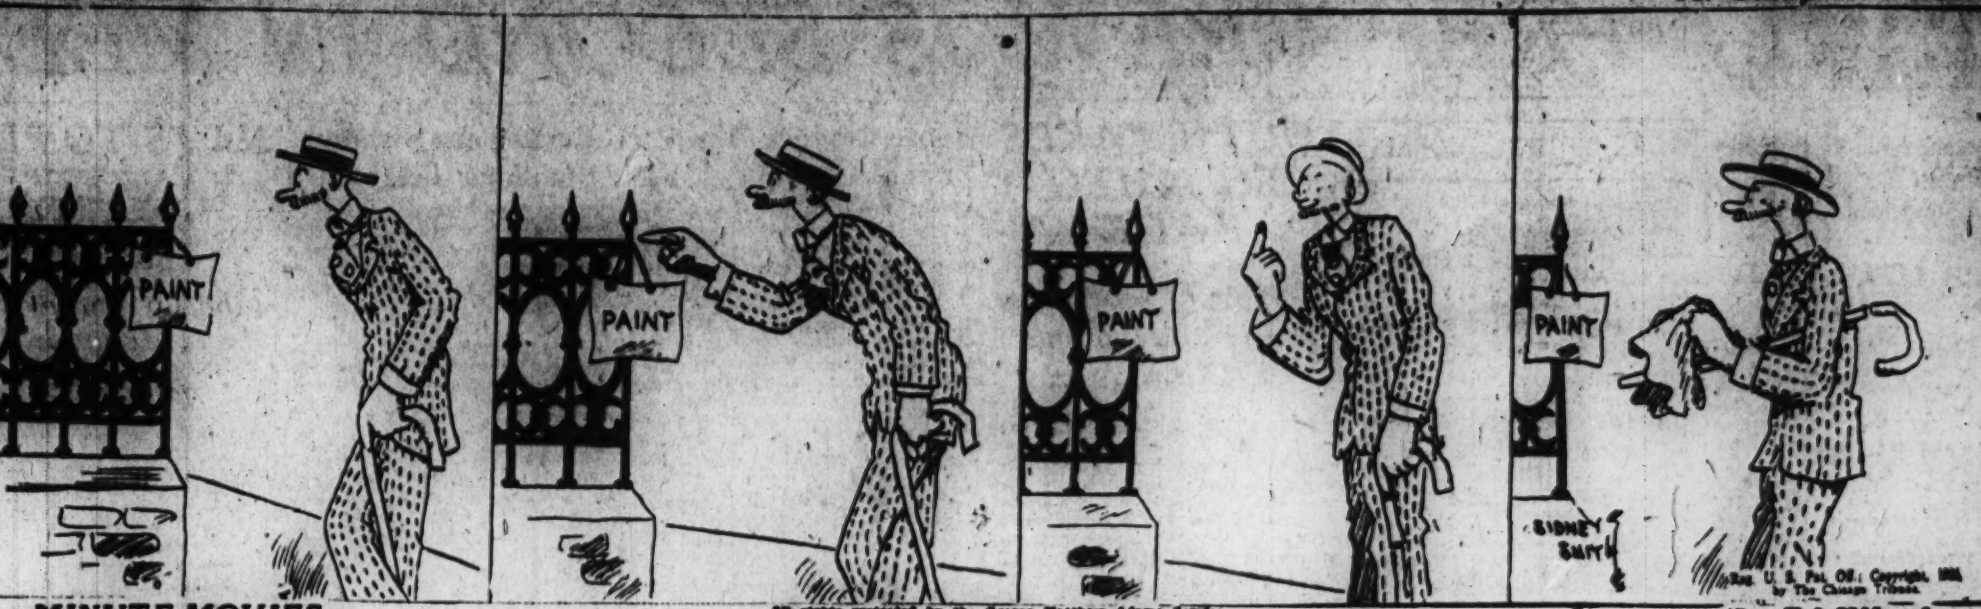

Included in the entertainers who will perform on the entertainment program will be Florence Mulholland, Virginia Rae, Vernon Dalhart and his entertainers who have been heard for the past three weeks. A discussion of present European problems by Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, regent of the school of foreign service of Georgetown university, will be given at tonight's session of the radio school of foreign relations, to be broadcast at 7:10 o'clock.

Chinese Is Taught In Officers' School

A school where officers are taught to speak Chinese is being conducted by the Fifteenth United States infantry, stationed at Tientsin, China. The object of the school is to teach officers sufficient Chinese to carry out missions of command without friction arising from misunderstanding; to be able to converse with villagers sufficiently to obtain information and to check the work of the interpreters.

The course is arranged so that the average officer is able to complete it satisfactorily in a year, and its value was fully demonstrated during recent disturbances, it is reported.

DEMAND MUST COMBAT RADICALS AGAIN TODAY

No Secret Is Made of Desire to Return Herriot to the Premiership.

FINANCE DEBATE SOUGHT

Paris, May 31. (By A. P.)—Premier Briand will have to wage another parliamentary battle tomorrow in order to clinch the victory he won on the reconvening of the chamber of deputies last Thursday, when he received a vote of confidence by a vote of 320 to 209.

The radicals, including most of the members of the cabinet of former Premier Herriot, contest M. Briand's success of Thursday, saying he obtained only one tangible result, division of the radical party. They have again declared war on the ministry, summoning the party members to rally around the radical standard and vote the downfall of the government or suffer the consequences, which, it is intimated, will be exclusion from the party.

The conflict between the radicals, socialists and the government, though waged ostensibly on the financial question, is a political one. The groups, with the exception of the radicals of nationalist tendency, make no secret of their desire to bring M. Herriot back to power. They are led by most of M. Herriot's ministers. Their tactics seem to be to draw the government into debate on the financial question, in the course of which they expect the premier or finance minister will make declarations so hostile to the radical-socialist extreme policies as to enable them to patch up the left bloc again and defeat the government.

M. Briand, who in Thursday's vote was supported in his refusal to discuss finances, will accept the challenge tomorrow. He will make a complete declaration of what has been done and what he proposes to do to strengthen the French financial position, and he will again ask that the vote be made a question of confidence.

POLES EMBITTERED TOWARD PILSUDSKI

however, depends on tonight's inter-factional meetings, which are expected to last into the morning hours.

Tonight's political lineup for tomorrow's election sees the Pilsudski party with 65 votes; the National Labor party with 22; the Radical Peasant group, 32; the Peasant party, 33; and the Labor club with 10—a total of 162 votes—for a common candidate, Pilsudski, the minority parties, with 130 votes and the Socialists with 48—a total of 178—for Norbert Balcewicz, the right group, comprising National Democrats, Christian Agrarians and Christian Democrats, with a total of 203 votes for Michael Bobrzyński.

Acting President Rataj's announcement of the marshal's refusal caused a sensation in the national assembly and wild excitement among the populace.

Premier Bartel told Pilsudski he could not guarantee what the people would do in their disappointment, but the marshal replied, "Leave that to me. I'll manage all right."

The marshal's declaration of the presidency has bewildered the national assembly and the general public alike. The socialists have raged a monster demonstration for this afternoon in the opera square. Thousands of trade unionists with bands and banners, and carrying pictures of the marshal, crowded the square, only to be met by the announcement of the Pilsudski decision.

At first the workers refused to believe the news, and their leaders were forced to climb upon benches and read the marshal's letter to the national assembly.

There are many adherents of the right and even some of the marshal's own followers who feel that his letter is an insult to the people. It is felt that the marshal desired the stamp of legal approval on his coup d'état, but that he is unwilling to accept further responsibility.

Will Remain Master, Is View.

Berlin, May 31. (By A. P.)—Despite the unexpected rejection of the presidency by Marshal Pilsudski, the Berliner Tageblatt believes that the marshal will continue master of Poland.

"The new national assembly will elect a substitute designated by Pilsudski," the paper says, "the marshal reserving for himself a task nearest his heart, namely, the supreme command of the army. Even though another man becomes formal head of the state, future Polish politics are certain to bear Pilsudski's stamp."

Vorwaerts sees in Pilsudski's attitude an expression of his program for combating corruption in Poland.

Wall Street's Signposts Point Definitely Upward

By S. S. FONTAINE.

New York, May 31.—Wall Street signposts point to the right, according to the composite opinion of the leading commentators who like to look on the bright side of things. It has been a long road through the gloom the professors of pessimism have spread over the economic picture, but the mist has proved to be merely a smoke screen and as it drifts away the sun is still smiling and the turn seems to lead through fertile industrial fields toward higher altitudes.

From the speculative point of view the week begins with cheery prospects than at any time for the last two months. Heretofore professionals have succeeded in checking any definite rallying tendency in stocks, but on Friday prices were roused up in such precipitate manner that the short interest was forced to cover post haste. There were several reasons for this, the most important being the fact that business, and consequently industrial profits, have not suffered the collapse that had been anticipated as a result of the rapid drop in security prices earlier in the year.

Bank clearings throughout the first and second quarters held up to an average of about $1,600,000 a day for the 20 leading cities. Car loadings, after a temporary recession under the million mark, have recovered that level. In view of the unseasonable weather, it would have been no surprise if retail sales and the business of mail order houses had shown a sharp contraction, but all the commercial reviews deny that anything of this kind has occurred.

A third factor of importance is the hardening in commodity prices. For the last fortnight the number of declines in staple articles has been outnumbered by the number of advances, so that the general price level has recovered fractionally from the bottom. It is the first reversal in trend since early in the year. Even with the lower commodity price level there has been no epidemic of commercial failures, these having aggregated slightly above 400 weekly, which is the normal figure.

The inference is that inventories are small throughout the country and, as commodity prices have declined, merchants have been able to replenish their stocks at the lower quotations. Efficiency of railway transportation, which makes for a rapid turnover and does away with the necessity for extended forward purchases, accounts for the strong inventory position in commerce.

One of the important features of the stock market in the last ten days was the assumption of definite leadership by the oil shares, with rails following up as a close second. The position in the oil industry, according to high authorities, is better than it has been at any time in the last five years. The price of gasoline and crude oil has advanced several times in the last four weeks, thereby increasing the profits of oil brought out of the ground and also enhancing the value of low-priced oil in storage bought on slump last year, when production exceeded consumption. At the present time consumption and production are about evenly balanced, and as no new pools of consequence are in sight, the summer demand for oil will not doubt bring the consumption figures up to a point where large imports of oil will be required.

This prospect has directed speculative attention to companies producing in South America. Large capital expenditures have been made in that area for development, and within the next months preparations will be under way to start a substantial movement of oil to this country. This ought to prevent a runaway market in oil products, but it also brings into view a rapid growth of profits for companies.

U. S. Ship Will Carry Veterans From Italy

Rome, May 31. (By A. P.)—Ambassador Fletcher today officially informed Premier Mussolini that the United States government will send a ship to Italy to provide free passage to the United States of the Italian veterans of the American world war army who recently were made eligible to enter America over the emigration quota.

The Ambassador requested that Italy send a warship with the veterans as an escort of honor and that a delegation of Italian army veterans accompany the former American soldiers as a manifestation of friendship between the two nations. He said that the ship was expected to sail within the next two months.

League Finance Head Resigns His Position

Quebec, Que., May 31. (By A. P.)—Sir Herbert Ames, of Montreal, financial director of the League of Nations, has tendered his resignation to J. Bleier, his assistant, who has arrived here from Europe.

Sir Herbert Ames was formerly a member of the Canadian House of Commons for the St. Antoine division of Montreal. He resigned to take office with the League of Nations upon its formation.

Amortization

Real estate first mortgage bond issues under the Miller Plan of Underwriting are paid off yearly through monthly installments. Gradually, through the life of the bond issue, monthly repayments of principal become greater as interest charges decrease. This gradual wiping out of the mortgaged debt is called "amortization." It is a very conservative in the Miller structure of safety. It assures the investor prompt and automatic delivery of sums due him on the dates specified.

CONSIDER, for instance, the $400,000 issue of 7% first mortgage leasehold bonds secured by the building at 101 Marietta Street, Atlanta, Ga. Over a term of 15 years the increase in value of this modern, well-located building would practically offset the depreciation. However, the schedule of amortization listed below, which averages approximately 4% per year, provides an extra margin so that the safety of the bond issue is independent of any increase or decrease in property values.

HIGH SCHOOL CADETS READY TO COMPETE FOR MILITARY HONOR

Twenty-Four Companies Enter Contest Which Begins at 8:30 A. M. Today.

WAR SECRETARY DAVIS WILL REVIEW WINNER

Maneuvers to Be Held at Ball Park and Continue for Two Days.

"Forward—March!" At 8:30 o'clock today that command from Allan C. Drown, commanding Company D, first regiment, of Central High school, will resound through the Clark Griffith stadium, sending his charges into motion and opening the two-day maneuvers of the thirty-ninth annual competitive drill of Washington high school cadets. Twenty-four companies will compete in the drill. Eight companies from Central, three from Eastern and three from Western will be put through their paces today. At approximately 5 o'clock tomorrow four companies from McKinley Manual Training, three from Business and one each from Central, Eastern and Western will have drilled, concluding the competition. Twenty-five minute periods are allotted each company.

Brigade in Final March.

Company N, Third regiment, of Western, will be the final company to drill. Five minutes after they leave the field the brigade will form for the final march. Then will come the most thrilling moment in the year's work of the cadet, choosing the winner. Secretary of War Davis will review the winning company and present to its captain the Allison Naylor gold medal award. He will then review the brigade. Last year Company L, of Western High school, won the drill. In recent years the larger institutions have walked off the field with the honor, and Business High school, the smallest institution represented, has not won the event since 1914. However, Col. Wallace M. Craigie, professor of military science and tactics, asserts that the drill this year will be the most keenly contested ever staged.

Reserve Officers Ordered to Camp

The following District reserve officers are expected to attend the field artillery training camp at Fort Myer, Md., July 16-21: Col. Leroy Herron, Maj. Percy B. McCoy, Capt. ## U. S. Representation At Conference Urged

An effort to have the United States represented at the international conference on slavery and forced labor, which is scheduled for next September, is being made by the administrative committee of the Federal Council of Churches. The Federal Council of Churches is composed of 35 great communions and is cooperating with the Foreign Missions Conference of North America, which numbers many of the Protestant foreign mission associations of the country in its membership. The objective of our government in this respect should be to secure the maximum possible protection of the race and the people of Africa and elsewhere that have been so long and so ruthlessly exploited by greed and avarice," Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, secretary of the council's commission on international justice said yesterday. The council is advocating "measures calculated to abolish as soon as possible every form of slavery and all involuntary servitude, analogous to slavery, resulting from complicity."

South American countries are stressing the need for health work among children under 2 years of age, reports from various delegates showed. Senorita Enriqueta R. Morales, of Panama, told of work done by the Children's Institute, and Dr. Leon Valasco Blanco, of Bolivia, submitted a plan for protection of children by the Red Cross. Senor Don A. R. Larrosa, director of the Pan-American bureau, Secretary of Red Cross societies, Dr. Alejandro Quijano, of Mexico, and Dr. Getulio dos Santos, secretary general of the Brazilian Red Cross, also made addresses. Today the delegates will go to Warrenton, Va., where they will be entertained at the estate of Oscar T. Crosby, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. In the afternoon a show of letters will take place at the residence of H. C. Groome. En route, delegates will tour the civil war battlefield at Bull Run.

Heating Contractors Convene Here Today

The thirty-seventh annual convention of the Heating and Piping Contractors' National association will open its four-day session in the Willard hotel this morning with a meeting of the board of directors at 10 o'clock and a get-together party, vaudeville and dance tonight. Delegates were arriving last night and two special trains bearing delegates will arrive today from Chicago and New York. Both trains will be met at Union station by C. E. LeVigne, director of the Washington convention bureau, and Thomas Egan, president of the local chapter of the national body. The convention bureau is furnishing bus transportation from the station to the Willard hotel as well as arranging sightseeing trips for the visitors.

Woman Is Cut Badly, Husband Is Arrested

James Heany, 50 years old, of 83 New York avenue northwest, was arrested yesterday by Headquarters Detectives Nally and O'Brien and charged with assaulting his wife, Mrs. Jennie Heany, with a dangerous weapon. He was released later in $500 bond. According to police, Mrs. Heany was badly cut on the right hand during an argument with her husband yesterday afternoon at their home. Mrs. Heany was treated by a nearby physician. Heany gave himself up to the police.

WOMEN SEEK FACTS ON POLITICS, STATES POST RADIO SPEAKER

Mrs. Clyde B. Altchison Describes Activities of Political Study Club.

SAYS WOMEN ARE NOW PROMOTING CITIZENSHIP

Story of Betty Washington's Home, Musical Program, Are Other Features.

"Women are seeking facts on national issues, political questions and governmental policies," Mrs. Clyde B. Altchison, president of the Political Study club, told The Washington Post's radio audience last night from station WCAP. "To this end," said Mrs. Altchison, who is the wife of the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, "they have organized study clubs and converted the 'culture clubs' of yesterday into organizations dealing with problems which they must face at the polls." Outlining of women's object in the field of political study, she said, "it is to obtain first-hand information, if possible, on matters affecting the welfare of the nation, and to learn the opinions of those who are regarded as authoritative."

Describes Club Work.

Describing the work of the Political Study club as an illustration, she said that the ardor with which the women of Washington are applying themselves to such studies as presented by the club, is typical of the interest of women throughout the nation. When the Political Study club was organized in 1925, its object was to obtain women suffrage. With that accomplished, its aim was changed to the study of such subjects as would enable the woman to use the ballot to serve the best interests of the country. Membership of the Political Study club, Mrs. Altchison mentioned as an illustration of the idea, is drawn from many walks of life, official, social, and from among housewives. Many members are winter sojourners in the capital and most of them are affiliated with kindred organizations, and are voters in the States.

Working For Knowledge.

All are working to obtain and pass on to others, information and understanding of subjects discussed. Describing the progress of the woman in suffrage, she concluded saying, "she may feel indifference; she may make mistakes; she may change her mind; but she is using all her powers, authority and influence for the promotion of the best ideals of good citizenship."

Miss Elizabeth E. Poe, of the Post staff, described Kenmore, home of Betty Washington, sister of George Washington. The Carberry group of musical and vocal artists, Earl, Bob and Lillian, gave their farewell concert, prior to leaving on tour. Earl sang, Bob played the xylophone, and Lillian was at the piano. Baseball results were announced.

Hebrew Home Opens Membership Drive

The membership campaign of the Hebrew Home for the Aged will be opened tomorrow night with a rally in the auditorium of the home, Eleventh street and Spring road northwest. Harry Sherby, president of the board of directors of the institution, and Bernard Danansky, chairman of the membership drive, will give their final instructions to the 300 volunteer workers. The drive will last for two weeks, in which time the workers will attempt to obtain 2,000 members.

CATCHY COHAN COMEDY AT NATIONAL THEATER

"The Song and Dance Man" Well Received on Opening Night by Capacity Crowd.

RHEA DIVELEY MAKES HIT

George M. Cohan's comedy, "The Song and Dance Man," is built around a subject near and dear to his heart—and is the writing of it he pours forth his knowledge of the American theater, on stage and off; so that before the last curtain rings down a fairly good glimpse of theatrical life is obtainable.

The National Theater players, under the direction of Clifford Brooks, do rather a good job with the Cohan vehicle; another feather in the company cap. There is, however, some twenty-five minutes to be clipped off the running time before things are as theater-goers would like to have them; a speeding up in delivery of lines and possibly a little more animation on the part of the song and dance man himself. The story is this: A vaudeville, down on his luck, driven to the last ditch, decides to "stick-up a Broad" waylay with a property-gun—unloaded. The club man has mercy on the unfortunate, hears and believes his story, leads him to the apartment of a theatrical producer, and through the channel prepares the way for the eventual stardom of a young actress with whom the song-and-dance man is in love.

Kathryn Givney sails for Europe some time this week. In her place the management of the National Theater Players presents a second edition of the absentees—Miss Rhea Diveley—who, in a typical Givney role, is suggestive of the departed Kathryn that many in the audience last night believed the newcomer to be her own predecessor; if such a thing could happen, Miss Diveley established herself immediately.

John Warner plays the lead, with Leneta Lane opposite—a pretty, little love match capably carried off, with Romaine Colander cast in the role of an interloper.

The Cohan piece gives Dorothy Tierney a chance to display her ability as a singer of songs, and William Phibbs, in a comedy role, again as a typical showman; a director for the theatrical producer played by Charles Hampden. One of the fine bits is the dialect touch contributed by A. H. Rhodes.

There is, however, deep in this play, a fine bit of philosophy on life—and the National Theater Players manage to wrench a good deal out of it.

"The Naked Truth," Film, Shown at Belasco Theater

At matinees, for women only, and at night, for men only, "The Naked Truth," the film at the Belasco, is being augmented by "Plain Talks From the Hills," Dr. L. A. Edwards telling the boys and girls, in turn, what it's all about.

Some fifteen years ago Brieux's play, "Damaged Goods," made quite a sensation on the stage, but it is doubtful if the photoplay at the Belasco will ever attain the heights hit by the dramatist. In fifteen years the world has changed.

Dance to Be Given At Jewish Center

An entertainment and dance will be given tomorrow night at the Jewish community center, Sixteenth and Q streets northwest, under auspices of the Vincent B. Costello post of the American Legion, and the Costello auxiliary for war work at Walter Reed hospital. The entertainment will start at 8:30 o'clock and the dancing at 10. Tickets will be sold at the community center.

Among the entertainers will be Stellar Dramatic Players, who will stage a comedy sketch under the direction of Miss Sue H. Murray; John Fahy, of the Pemberton Players, in "The Irish Rookie;" the team of Morris and Griffith, in "Such Nonsense," and Edithson and Bush in "Jazz Songs and Fast Feet." Charles Pense will be the accompanist. Dance music will be provided by the Royal Palms orchestra under the direction of Earl R. White.

Ad Club to Be Host To Group Presidents

The presidents of more than a score of Washington organizations will be the guests of the Washington Advertising club at a luncheon today at 12:30 at the City club. The luncheon will be the first meeting held under leadership of Norman C. Kai, recently elected president. Harold Levy, former president of the organization, who is to make the principal address, will urge the guests to have their organizations support the Advertising club in its efforts to have the annual convention of the organization brought to Washington. A special delegation, consisting of 50 members of the club, will go to the sesquicentennial exposition in Philadelphia.

Christian Scientists Buy L Street Church

The Third Church of Christ, Scientist, has purchased the church at Thirteenth and L streets northwest, formerly used by the Church of Our Father, Universalist. The edifice will be remodeled. This will be the only Christian Scientist church in the downtown area, the other three being located in residential sections. Plans for remodeling include complete renovation of the interior to provide a seating capacity of 600 persons. New chairs, lighting and heating equipment will be installed. A basement is to be dug under the building to provide quarters for the Sunday school. Later it is planned to improve the exterior with stone.

5,000 BILLS DESIGNED TO TAKE TREASURY MONEY INTRODUCED

Record Only Includes Measures Not Fathered by Administration.

SURPLUS PROVIDES FOR FUNDS ALLOWED

Nation Would Soon Be Bankrupt If Every Item Was Authorized.

By WILLIAM F. KELLAM, JR.
More than 5,000 bills designed to get money out of the Federal Treasury have been introduced in the present session of Congress, now near adjournment. This reckoning includes only bills not fathered by the administration and does not include appropriation bills recommended by the President for carrying on the government's necessary routine. It does not include the deficiency bills, either; appropriation and deficiency bills approved by the President run to about $4,400,000,000, including the Post Office bill, but only an expert accountant can tell the huge total of other proposed expenditures.

The record shows that Congress, having passed a tax reduction bill, settled down to the consideration of measures calling for the spending of money not in the Treasury and not anticipated there. Thus far, in 1926, the leaders in House and Senate have curbed the will of the pet projects and have to date passed no bill to steer next winter's lame duck Congress through the waters of extravagance to the haven of economy, no one can foresee.

Tax reduction next year, therefore, has an outstanding obstacle in its path in the form of Congress itself. So far as can be seen now, it appears to be the main obstacle. If the present Congress can be held in line at its short session, beginning in December, and will restrain its desire to spend mythical fortunes from the Treasury, a sizeable surplus appears in the making for another tax cut in 1927. If Congress takes the bit in its teeth, however, and runs away from the economy policy, taxpayers can kiss good-bye, then and there, the early prospects of another cut.

Out of Surplus.
The Treasury carries, generally, a balance of less than $300,000,000 in cash. Its surplus this year, ending June 30, will run to not less than $250,000,000, it is estimated. Out of that surplus must come whatever money Congress spends in addition to the existing routine expenditures of the government. It can't be spent for debt reduction or tax reduction and other purposes, too. Government money doesn't do double duty; Uncle Sam's dollar will buy only 100 cents.

Briand Wins Chamber Vote After Defying Own Party

Premier Flatly Refuses to Permit Discussion of French Finances Now or in Near Future—Radicals Split—Vote Is 313 to 147.

Paris, June 1 (By A. P.).—The Briand ministry, aided by a powerful outburst against his political opponents by the premier himself, today weathered the second storm within a week and obtained an overwhelming vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies.

Premier Briand, defying the radical members of his own majority, refused to discuss the financial situation at the present time, and on this issue gained the vote of confidence. He declared that he had enough of the present parliamentary tactics and that he would abandon the helm unless he were left in peace to work out the financial salvation of the country.

The premier brought a safe majority of the chamber under his charm with a burst of eloquence which reminded his hearers of his old-time oratorical triumphs.

The vote was 313 in support of the government to 147 against. This constituted a clear majority of 21 votes in the entire chamber.

The radical party was unable to agree on a line of action, and at the last moment split into three factions, some voting for the government, some against and a large group abstaining.

The premier refused even to discuss the financial program now or to fix an early date when he would come before the chamber with new financial measures. This aggressiveness and stubbornness in resisting a considerable part of his own majority surprised the leaders of the movement to overthrow the cabinet. It brought him stout support from the moderates and conservatives.

Senator Coolidge sees no opportunity for another tax reduction for several years, despite the apparent surplus which will be available at the close of this fiscal year, June 30.

The fiscal troubles of the government, it was said at the White House, are not so much concerned with this year as they will be next year and the following year, when the real effect of the present tax reduction will be felt.

It was reiterated on behalf of the President that if another tax reduction is to be possible or even a deficit averted next year Congress must go lightly by the way of adding permanent expenditures to the government's pay roll.

As the national debt is reduced, however, the President sees another opportunity in the course of a few years for a reduction in taxes.

While some Treasury officials believe the surplus this year will amount to, at least, $250,000,000, the President is not quite so optimistic as to the amount, feeling it is impossible to gauge the total until the June quarterly income tax payments have been made.

Last of 5 Americans Released in Mexico

Amarillo, Tex., June 1 (By A. P.).—A telegram from J. W. Shanklin to his wife at Canyon, Tex., today that he has been freed by Mexican bandits announced the release of the last of the five Americans seized and held for ransom by outlaws in the southern republic recently. The telegram stated that Shanklin "is back on the job" at a sugar plantation, El Potrero, state of Vera Cruz, from which he and a bodyguard were kidnapped.

Other Americans kidnapped and later released by bandits are C. B. Braden and Jules B. Gallagher, San Antonio mining engineers, who had been operating the Texas properties at Desobridores, Durango, and two oil men named Briggs and Greeley, kidnapped from oil fields in the state of Vera Cruz.

SENATE PROGRAM ALLOWS SESSION'S CLOSE IN 3 WEEKS

Farm Relief and French Debt Are Made Major Items on Slate.

MINOR MEASURES MAY BE INSERTED

Move for Closure on Migratory Bird Bill Defeated by 34-to-46 Vote.

By ALBERT W. FOX.
As a result of conferences between Senate leaders and developments on the floor yesterday, the end of the present session of Congress now appears in sight.

The uncertainty of the last few weeks has given way to a definite program calling for full consideration of farm relief legislation, adoption of the French debt settlement, if it is ratified in Paris, and adjournment sine die between June 19 and 25 or thereabouts.

Senator Curtis, the majority leader, conferred with President Coolidge at the White House yesterday and the assumption is that the President has been informed of the program. By making farm relief and French debt the only major matters of consideration, it is inevitable that some administration bills will be left unacted upon in the jam.

Other minor measures may be sandwiched in by laying aside temporarily the matters of major consideration. However, no bill that can so prolong debate as to endanger the program is to be kept before the Senate.

Senator McNary got farm relief before the Senate at the unfinished business yesterday. This is in the form of the House committee bill with the McNary-McNary bill tacked on as a rider. As soon as the bill had been made the unfinished business, it was laid aside temporarily for the bill to improve the army air service which was under discussion for the remainder of the day yesterday.

Radio Bill to Have Chance.
The administration's radio bill is also going to be given a chance to pass, it is said, and other measures will from time to time temporarily supplant the farm bill. But prohibition legislation, the Copeland coal bill, the Louisiana treaty and measures that promise long and bitter controversy appear already sidetracked. Such bills, it is conceded, could only be forced to passage by bitter and prolonged battles and the idea of promiscuously applying the closure rule got a setback yesterday when the Senate by a vote of 46 to 33 refused to lay closure on the migratory bird bill, which has been the unfinished business since May 19. This was less than the necessary two-thirds vote. Accordingly the bird bill, first sponsored by the recently-displaced Senator Brookhart and now championed by Senator Norbeck, has fallen by the wayside and gone back to the calendar.

The move to lay closure on this bill was said to have resulted from (Continued on Page 4, Column 1.)

President to Attend W.V. Hodges' Wedding

President and Mrs. Coolidge will motor to Glenloch Manor, Howard county, Md., Saturday to attend the wedding of William V. Hodges, treasurer of the Republican national committee, and Mrs. Charles Thomas Lowndes. Senator William M. Butler, chairman of the committee, and Mrs. Butler also are expected to attend.

Mr. Hodges was made treasurer of the committee following the death of Fred W. Upham, of Chicago. Mrs. Lowndes was formerly Miss Frances Beasley, of Princeton, N. J. The wedding will take place at the country seat of her brother-in-law, W. Winslow Lowndes, who is a Republican leader in Baltimore.

French Kill 30 Rebels in Damascus Gardens

Paris, June 1 (By A. P.).—A heavy dispatch from Beirut says that French paratroopers in the course of clearing operations in Damascus gardens, between the Kurd and Anzari quarters, killed about 30 rebels.

The escaped prisoners, John F. Bicknell, 38, William L. Conn, 34, and George W. Miller, 34, of Oklahoma, Okla., were taken to the hospital and are now recovering.

Many of the Moro leaders are among the dead, while the remaining outlaws have been scattered into small groups. The Moros' power of resistance has been reduced to a minimum by the loss of most of their arms and ammunition.

2 ON HUDSON RIVER LINER, SUNK IN FOG, MISSING; 350 SAVED

Greatest of Day Boats, Rammed by Barge, Races to Shore.

BAND PLAYS TO QUIET PANIC; TUGS GIVE AID

Mother and Child Unaccounted for After Washington Irving Founders Near Pier.

New York, June 1 (By A. P.).—A woman and her 3-year-old daughter, passengers on the steamer Washington Irving, which sank today in the Hudson river after a collision with a steel oil barge, had not been located tonight by officials of the line checking the passenger list. All other passengers and crew were reported safe.

The missing passengers are Mrs. Lynn A. Hoag and her daughter, Mary, of New York. Two other children of Mrs. Hoag were put ashore when the steamer sank off Jersey city. There were 200 passengers and a crew of 150 on the vessel.

The disappearance of the mother and child was discovered when the two other children were found wandering about the Jersey City pier, crying. It was said that the father is at Niagara Falls, Canada, and that his wife and children were to meet him in Buffalo.

Two theories were advanced for the continued absence of Mrs. Hoag and her child, one was that she might have become mentally unbalanced and sought refuge in a hospital, the other was that when she became separated from her other two children she might have wandered below decks with Mary, in a frantic search for the missing child, and have been trapped and drowned.

Rammed in Fog.
Emerging from an impenetrable wall of fog today a big steel oil barge, one of a pair under convoy of the tug Thomas E. Moran, rammed and sank the steamer Washington Irving, flagship of the Hudson River Day Line, so quickly that persons aboard had barely time to escape with their lives.

Through the seamanship of Capt. David H. Deming, veteran skipper of the giant excursion steamer, the largest river passenger boat in the world, practically all on board were landed at Jersey City a few minutes before the vessel settled in 35 feet of water.

The Washington Irving had just started on her daily run to Albany and had reached midstream when the collision came. The steamer began to settle at once. Capt. Deming signaled for full steam ahead and steered for the New Jersey shore, meanwhile blowing the distress signal. Tugs and ferries have alongside and took off some of the passengers.

Woman Is Accused of Poisoning Flores

Cullacan, Sinaloa, Mexico, June 1 (By A. P.).—Given added impetus by the statement of Miguel Sarabia, former member of the staff of the late Gen. Angel Flores, that he could positively identify Manuel Camarillo and Blanca Roachy, French adventurers, jointly accused of poisoning Flores, the hunt for the pair has been renewed in this section. They have not been seen since Flores died, March 31.

Sarabia says the poisoning occurred at a hotel in the town of Culiacan, where Flores and his staff were stopping.

Whether the pair acted on their own initiative, or under the instruction of some one else, Sarabia does not venture.

6 Army Prisoners Flee Ft. Leavenworth

Leavenworth, Kan., June 1 (By A. P.).—Six persons, inmates of the disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth, near here, overpowered a guard this afternoon, took his shotgun and escaped.

The escaped prisoners, John F. Bicknell, 38, William L. Conn, 34, and George W. Miller, 34, of Oklahoma, Okla., were taken to the hospital and are now recovering.

Many of the Moro leaders are among the dead, while the remaining outlaws have been scattered into small groups. The Moros' power of resistance has been reduced to a minimum by the loss of most of their arms and ammunition.

BOGUS LORD SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR A YEAR

Debonair 'Beaverbrook,' Who Made Love to Victim, Is Termed Most Heartless.

Philadelphia, June 1 (By A. P.).—Still poised and debonair, as he has remained throughout his arraignment and trial, Frederick R. Stanley, alias "Lord Beaverbrook," and a score of other scintillating names, today was sentenced to serve one year in the county prison, after pleading guilty to embezzling $8,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Frances C. Kemp.

Stanley was arrested in a barber shop here recently by detectives who had followed him for weeks on complaint of various women that he had married and swindled them out of large sums. The man today steadfastly refused to give his correct name, which officials declared is Herman Krueger.

The indictment under which Stanley was arraigned was returned in July, 1925, after he had disappeared with jewelry from the store here of Mrs. Kemp, widow of a jeweler. Mrs. Kemp said the defendant had been employed in her jewelry store prior to his theft.

Warrants for his arrest have been received from many cities. Police records show that Stanley served sentences in Sing Sing, N. Y., and is wanted there now for violation of his parole.

The man, detectives explained, was an accomplished actor and was able to adapt himself to the ideals of the woman he wishes to impress. "In twenty years in the detective bureau," said George Getson, city detective, "I've never seen a man who could pose so well as the perfect lover and who had less conscience in using that way to get money. Every day we get more complaints from women to whom he had made love, married and deserted, taking their valuables. He blew it all on gambling, high living and crooked police."

Bennett Case Reviewed.
Questioned by Mr. Blanton, Mr. Lambert testified concerning the case of H. P. Bennett, whose nephew, a man named Blade, sought to have declared insane.

Bennett was an elderly man having an estate of approximately $400,000. Mr. Penning acting for Blade filed the lunacy petition and subsequently rode with Dr. D. Percy Hickling, District attorney, in the patrol wagon out to Bennett's house to get him. Dr. Hickling was one of the supporting attorneys for Mr. Penning.

Bennett, summoned to appear in court to defend his sanity filed to the house of a friend, Mr. Lambert testified, and communicated with Mr. Lambert. Mr. Lambert counseled him to stay where he was. Subsequently, Mr. Penning called on Mr. Lambert, but the latter told Mr. Penning that he would not deliver the man but would produce him in court at anytime agreeable with Mr. Penning. The case came on for hearing.

3 Killed by Lightning; Gale Unroofs Houses

Indianapolis, Ind., June 1 (By A. P.).—Three persons were killed by lightning and considerable property damage done by storms in Indiana today. The dead are: Oran Patton, 44, of Greensburg; George E. Paine, 31, of Terre Haute, and Kenneth Weasel, 16, living near Linton.

MORO OUTLAW BAND BROKEN UP; 140 DEAD

Campaign of Extermination in Mindanao Completed, Manila Is Advised.

Manila (Wednesday), June 1 (By A. P.).—The band of Moro outlaws in Lanao province, Mindanao, against which the Philippine constabulary has been waging a campaign of extermination for the last two weeks, has been virtually wiped out.

This was the belief of officials today as reports were received from the fighting district showing that the past three days of the campaign have resulted in the killing of 45 Moros and the wounding of nearly 60 others. Since the fighting began in Lanao a fortnight ago, about 140 outlaws have been killed and many wounded.

Many of the Moro leaders are among the dead, while the remaining outlaws have been scattered into small groups. The Moros' power of resistance has been reduced to a minimum by the loss of most of their arms and ammunition.

LAMBERT TESTIFIES FENNING DROPPED CASE ON GESTURE

Says Mere Suggestion in Court Quickly Ended Lunacy Move.

BLANTON AND HOGAN CONTINUE TO CLASH

Representative Green Tells Inquirers That Letters Are Missing From Files.

Another sharp clash between Representative Blanton, of Texas, and Frank J. Hogan, chief defense counsel, in which Wilton J. Lambert, prominent local attorney, figured, marked the hearing of Commissioner Penning's case before the House judiciary subcommittee last night.

It came in connection with the Texan's examination of Mr. Lambert.

Mr. Lambert, for the time being, was sitting idly in the witness chair while Mr. Blanton was reading from a stack of court papers. Mr. Hogan kept challenging Mr. Blanton as he read, saying "Give me those papers, Mr. Blanton." The Texan would reply, "Wait until I get through with them."

Finally Mr. Blanton turned to Mr. Lambert pleasantly and asked, "Do you fight that way down in your court?"

Mr. Lambert smiled and replied: "No; Mr. Hogan and I get along very well."

"I always get along with gentlemen," Mr. Hogan interjected, and the Texan swung around to face him.

"That's a—— insult," exclaimed the Texan, demanding that the committee make Mr. Hogan withdraw his remark.

"The committee hasn't the power to make me withdraw it," retorted Mr. Hogan. Order was restored and the examination of Mr. Lambert proceeded.

Questioned by Mr. Blanton, Mr. Lambert testified concerning the case of H. P. Bennett, whose nephew, a man named Blade, sought to have declared insane.

Bennett was an elderly man having an estate of approximately $400,000. Mr. Penning acting for Blade filed the lunacy petition and subsequently rode with Dr. D. Percy Hickling, District attorney, in the patrol wagon out to Bennett's house to get him. Dr. Hickling was one of the supporting attorneys for Mr. Penning.

Bennett, summoned to appear in court to defend his sanity filed to the house of a friend, Mr. Lambert testified, and communicated with Mr. Lambert. Mr. Lambert counseled him to stay where he was. Subsequently, Mr. Penning called on Mr. Lambert, but the latter told Mr. Penning that he would not deliver the man but would produce him in court at anytime agreeable with Mr. Penning. The case came on for hearing.

The first thing he did, Mr. Lambert testified, was to raise the question of jurisdiction, pointing out that Massachusetts had been Bennett's domicile. On that gesture alone Mr. Penning immediately moved the dismissal of the case. Mr. Lambert testified that he then told the court that the question of jurisdiction had only been a suggestion and that he did not want the case settled on that point.

Mr. Lambert demanded that the issues be thrashed out in order to clear the records of any trace of stigma against his client. The court held, however, that inasmuch as Mr. Penning was withdrawing the petition there was nothing for the case to rest on. Bennett only recently died and retained his sanity to the end, Mr. Lambert said.

There was another case in which Mr. Hogan and Mr. Lambert joined in opposition to Mr. Penning and another attorney.

This was a case in which at one time a bank with which Mr. Penning was connected was serving in one capacity. Mr. Penning in another and his law partner in another, while the patient was residing in the Laurel sanitarium with which Mr. Penning is also connected.

Mr. Lambert testified, however, that he wanted the woman kept in the Laurel institution in preference to the sanitarium.
